

Sometimes we wonder if we are getting all out of life that we should. By this we do not mean running around, carousing, and that sort of stuff, but to make somebody else happy who are not blessed with good health and enough to eat. To have a pleasant word to children and a respect for our elders. To do a favor without a thought of pay. At our age we believe we would be supremely happy if we could sit in the shade, watch the fish in our pool come for their food, enjoy the flowers, have a moderate flow of nickels come to one pocket and a fair amount of candy to the other and have boys and girls visit us often.

We are glad that God has so made us that we can make friends with small boys and girls and we trust we shall never betray their confidence. A few days ago a small boy came into the office for a visit and in his way approached a subject that was giving him much concern. Another lad was waiting across the street with a bicycle on which the two had ridden to town. After visiting for a while, the lad said he guessed he would go down and see his Dad as he had promised the other boy if he could get a nickel he would buy some candy and divided it with him. Then he said if he went down to see his Dad he might find him out on a prospect. We asked him what a prospect was and he said it was to try to make a sale. Anyway, he said if he went down to the place of business his Dad might be in Malden and if he wasn't, he might not have a nickel. What would you have done under the circumstances if you had a nickel? We fixed him up and the two lads rode off on the bicycle apparently satisfied and we were well paid for the story.

International Shoe Day and the Drummers' Convention have been great occasions for Sikeston and Southeast Missouri. They gave us opportunities to forget our worries, become better acquainted and bring folks to our city from miles around. Good fellowship and good entertainment is greatly appreciated at this time and we feel certain that Sikeston gave all of that to our visitors.

Let's back a school band similar to the organizations of Poplar Bluff and Charleston. Many pupils in our school are now splendid musicians and with proper training by a bandmaster will be second to none. These visiting school organizations advertise their city and add greatly to the prestige of their school. The Charleston band, with attractive uniforms were very striking. In fact we felt like shaking hands with all the boys and kissing all the girls beginning with the drum major.

An exchange truthfully remarks "that the printing press has made presidents, killed poets, furnished bustles for beauties and polished genius with criticism. It has curtailed the power of Kings, graced the pantry shelves, and busted. It has converted bankers into paupers and made lawyers out of college presidents. It has educated the homeless and robbed the philosopher of his reason. It smiles and cries and dies but it cannot be run to suit everybody, and the Editor is a fool that tries it."

There are times in the lives of most of us when we need a friend. The red headed dispenser of joy water who languished in the jail at Benton phoned some of her Sikeston customers to come to Benton and bail her out. Did they do it? They never heard of her before and didn't know her now.

Liquor and jealousy is a mighty bad combination. It sometimes makes a man whip his wife and later fills him with remorse.

The cover page of this week's issue of The Saturday Evening Post contains the picture of a young woman in a pensive mood. In the mist above appears the heads of four young men—the cause of her deep thought. She is trying to figure out which of the four she likes the best—all of them like her. This is what the coverage page denotes. The advice to this, or any other young lady, is to first find out which can furnish the meal ticket, and next which has the best disposition. The handsomest may be the least desirable, the best dancer, the meanest, and the ugliest has all the good points that a woman might hope for.

The next event on the card for Sikeston that should give us some favorable publicity is the Southeast Missouri Editorial Association scheduled for Friday, June 16, for one day only. This is a meeting of publishers to talk shop and ways and means to make a living and help their communities.

Manager: "I hear you and the leading lady are on the outs".
Electrician: "Yeah. It was one of those quick change scenes with the stage all dark. She asked for her lights and I thought she said lights"—Ohio State Sun Dial.

Married folks who go to a dance, get full, get out into a car and wrap up in one another's arms like a pair of snakes are bound to have somebody see them and have some talk made about them. Better go to some house and save talk and trouble. This is no joke, either.

Sikeston in co-operation with the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association, the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, a Poplar Bluff delegation, the Charleston band, visiting beauty queens and the co-operation of this entire community staged one of the most colorful parades ever conducted in the city Friday afternoon.

In length, striking appearance and originality, the event outlasted even the highly successful International Day parade held recently.

The two-mile parade was named an outstanding good will builder by Emil Hartman, president of the Drummers' Association. "We have not been accorded such a welcome, nor have we been privileged to witness a demonstration of like magnitude in many, many years," commented the president of the oldest and only remaining organization of its kind in the United States.

John Young, Sikeston's original parade master was chiefly responsible for the successful handling of the difficult task. The paraders were assembled on East street and the International Shoe Factory grounds in southeast Sikeston, and the line of march extended westward along Malone to the grade school building, where more than 1500 school children were added to the line, north on Stoddard to Front, east to Kingshighway, and north on that avenue to Center street. The paraders marched west on Center to Malone Park, where presents were distributed to children, floats judged and where the several bands and Chambers of Commerce organizations serenaded and entertained for more than an hour.

Nimrods Predict Unusual Season Starting Tuesday

Missouri's fishing season opens Tuesday, May 30!

Dozens of anglers spent Sunday evening looking over prospective "best places" in anticipation of one of the best fishing seasons in years, due to the fact that ditches, lakes, rivers and large streams in the district have carried an unusual volume of water this spring, giving fish an opportunity to run far upstream to spawn.

One Sikestonian drove approximately 60 miles Sunday visiting Big Lake, north of Charleston, the Drinkwater spillway, Brewer's Lake, Roark Holte, and dozens of ditches from East Prairie to west of Highway 61.

"The prospects for an excellent fishing season never looked better," he reported.

"Big Lake is still confined with the spillway on the Drinkwater levee closed. Mississippi River men expect a stage of 54 feet at Cairo this week which means that the spillway gates are still closed. The river level is still many feet above the level of Big Lake which stretches out of hundreds of acres of farm land. Brewer's Lake is still very high, the water lapping close to the club house. Most ditches, with the exception of the North Cut ditch are almost normal," he said, "although some still carry quite a bit of sediment."

Another local nimrod visited streams around Dominhan and Ozark country generally. Streams there were characterized as "murky," but local followers of the sport predict a successful season.

SCOUTS TO FORM PRESS CLUB HERE

Cecil G. Morrison, Scout executive in this district has issued an invitation to older Boy Scouts to meet next Thursday, June 1, at the City Hall for the purpose of discussing and possibly organizing a press club. The work is part of the "Old Boys' Scout Program," says Mr. Morrison in a letter to Vernon Bowles, in charge of Sea Scout work here. Local members of the latter group will give a short demonstration at the Thursday night affair which will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

DRUMMERS PICK POPLAR BLUFF FOR '34 MEET

BUSINESS SESSION SATURDAY CLOSES 3-DAY PROGRAM

A business session Saturday morning closed a three-day convention of the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association, with the unanimous selection of Poplar Bluff as the 1934 convention city, and election of the following officers for next year:

President—Bert B. Butz, of Cape Girardeau.
Vice-president—Stanley Knippenberg of St. Louis.
Secretary—Geo. Wecker.
Treasurer—A. W. Pollack.
Warden—Geo. Nagle of Poplar Bluff.

The invitation to visit to the Butler County city in 1934 was extended on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce by J. I. Dunn, genial manager of the Ducker Hotel. "What it takes, we have it," summarizes the invitation, the acceptance of which takes the oldest and only remaining organization of its kind to Poplar Bluff next year.

Mayor N. E. Fuchs invited the Drummers to return to Sikeston next year and promised an even better program of entertainment than was arranged last week-end. A rule of long standing not to hold successive yearly meetings in the same city shelved this motion, although Sikeston received several votes on the first ballot.

The whole-hearted co-operation of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce, and the entire faculties of the organization were extended to Poplar Bluff by Lyle Malone, president of the local civic group which staged the unusually successful convention program.

"We deeply appreciate the fine spirit of co-operation evinced by Poplar Bluff, by St. Louis, Charleston, Piggott, Ark., and other near-by towns and Chamber of Commerce organization," said Mr. Malone, "and we want Poplar Bluff to know that Sikeston stands ready with any advice or service at any time to make the convention a success for Poplar Bluff. In fact," he added, "the co-operative spirit shown during the past convention alone makes the effort worth while."

Sikeston received many words of praise for the manner in which the program was staged, and the program of entertainment, which offered fun and diversion for hundreds of persons in the city and nearby district, was handled.

A kids' pet show, a trapshoot event, real boxing card and a dance were features of the Thursday program. Friday was devoted to staging a monster parade, approximately two miles long, a program of first class local and radio talent that night, a What Night Club and a dance at the Armory. The business session Saturday morning was held in the Malone Theatre.

Total registration of memberships during the convention was 88, according to George Wecker, secretary, who also registered 233 guests and visitors at Hotel Marshall headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson and daughter, Miss Helen, and Miss Mary Ethel Smith, were in Oak Ridge, Sunday afternoon.

LOCALS BLANK ILLMO SUNDAY BY 1-0 SCORE

SIKESTON MANAGERS PLAN INDEPENDENT BALL

The Sikeston Independents Sunday opened the baseball season by defeating Illmo-Fornfelt one to nothing when Johnson circled the bases in the fourth, scoring the lone run of the game. In every department of the game the visitors and locals played on even terms, each netting five safeties, scattered and harmless as far as tallies were concerned. Both teams turned in errorless baseball backing up excellent pitching with air-tight fielding. Butler was on the mound for Sikeston and struck out eight visiting batsmen, while McMullin and P. Bray divided the hill work for Illmo-Fornfelt retired nine local boys swinging.

Tom Kirby and Roy Beard are being credited with organizing the locals, picking a first string from a wide range of material offered in the Muni series. It was first decided to join the Southeast Missouri League, but after the Sunday contest, Sikeston decided to play independent baseball, choosing the pick of the district. Such teams as the Charleston Cardinals, Cape Girardeau Capahs, Poplar Bluff Red Birds and others will be signed up for games it was announced.

The batteries for Sunday's game for Illmo-Fornfelt, P. Bray and McMullin pitch, Cruise catch; for Sikeston, Butler pitch, Limbaugh catch. Umpires: McMullin and Heisler, scorer, Smith of Sikeston.

The score:
Illmo-Fornfelt.....000 000 000 0 5 0
Sikeston.....000 100 000 1 5 0

TWO SIKESTON GIRLS WILL BE GRADUATED MAY 31 AT CHRISTIAN

Ruth Inez Felker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Felker, and Virginia Mount, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Mount, will be graduated May 31 at the eighty-second commencement of Christian College.

Ruth Inez was feature writer on the Microphone staff. She won first place in feature writing in the State Journalism contest on an interview of Mary Wigman. She was treasurer of the Dance Club, a member of Y. W. C. A., League of Women Voters, St. Cecilia Music Club, Choral Club and the Athletic Association.

Virginia was a member of the St. Cecilia Music Club, Choral Club, Double Sextette, Twelfth Night Club, Y. W. C. A., Athletic Association, Senior hockey, basketball, quiddities and basketball teams, and the Lineage Club.

OFF TO THE RACES
Jesse Wilkins, New Madrid county deputy sheriff, and Red Kirby of Sikeston left about 7 o'clock Monday morning to attend the Indianapolis speed races this week. A few minutes later another local trio Tharon Stallings, Cletus Ellis and P. D. Malone left Sikeston bound for the Century of Progress Exposition, Chicago. The boys intend staying about one week.

V. L. Bowles and family moved last week from Mrs. Florence Marshall's house on Lake Street to the King property on Gladys Street.

Successful Dance Ends Program of Fun Friday Nite

A two-hour program of dancing, music and special numbers was offered for the entertainment of visiting drummers and guests at the high school auditorium Friday evening, featuring Ken Wright and the Royal Hawaiians of radio station KMOX, St. Louis. A local chorus of beauties trained originally for the Lions Night Club entertainment was presented under the direction of Mrs. Mickey Brower, as a feature specialty. The personnel of the chorus included the following: Genevieve Putnam, Marjorie Mow, Mae Pepper, Jennalee Sells, Katherine Jane Mitchell, Mary Emma Powell, Hazel Young and Neva Mae Taylor.

Ken Wright remained in town until 1 o'clock attending the Armory dance featuring Eddie Randall, and the following morning at 6 o'clock was broadcasting from KMOX, dedicating part of the program to members of the Sikeston committee on arrangements.

Following the "Radiolites" program approximately 265 Southeast Missouri dance couples enjoyed music by Eddie Randall's "Seven Blue Devils", a radio broadcasting feature band which made a unanimous hit with the dance crowd.

A SOUR NOTE

Randall's band was delayed for one hour by two flat tires and the unfortunate experience of running out of gasoline a few miles north of Sikeston on Highway 61. Senseshaugh's trouble shooters remedied the latter situation, and chased away the three time jinx which seemingly followed the dark completed music makers from St. Louis.

"It was the largest dance crowd of my experience," commented Art Senseshaugh, chairman of the committee in charge, and Senseshaugh, incidentally has been chairman of the American Legion dance committee for some time. Visiting drummers, their guests, and hundreds of local and district dancers crowded the Armory floor to capacity, and was it hot, literally speaking?

SCOUTS OPEN CAMP-O-RALL

Beginning tonight (Monday) a local Camp-O-Rall for Boy Scouts will be held at the local football field and will last through Tuesday night, camp to be broken Wednesday morning. One of the special features of the Camp-O-Rall will be the Court of Honor to be held at 7:30 Tuesday evening, to which parents and friends of the Scouts are especially invited to attend. The public is invited to attend all activities of the camp, but especially are they invited to attend the Court of Honor. Wilbur Ensor, District Commissioner and Cecil Morrison, Scout Executive will be in charge of the camp.

The Auxiliary of the American Legion will entertain their husbands with a weiner roast in the hills near Morley, Wednesday evening.

ST. LOUISIANS PAY RESPECTS TO SIKESTON

DELEGATION HEADED BY BAND HERE FRIDAY

A delegation of wide-awake and hustling business executives and representatives from St. Louis paid a visit to Sikeston Friday to brush elbows and talk shop with local merchants and citizens. The large group was headed by the famous Col. Seymore's band, a versatile organization of real musicians, and participated in a large way with the three-day convention of the Southeast Missouri Drummers' organization.

The visit here was part of a two-day tour of nine Southeast Missouri towns under the auspices of the Sales Managers' Bureau of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. Towns visited on the trip included DeSoto, Bismarck, Ironton-Arcadia, Piedmont, Poplar Bluff, Dexter, Charleston and this city.

David Hearsch, president of the Sales Managers' Bureau, expressed great satisfaction with his visit here. "You have a progressive group of merchants and a splendid type of citizens," he said, "and we are glad of this opportunity to pay you a call. By visits such as this we are enabled to become better acquainted and be real neighbors as we all desire to be."

"We invite you to come to St. Louis whenever you can and enjoy our hospitality, as we have yours. St. Louis is making a special effort this summer and fall to have people in her trade territory visit the city and see its sights. If you haven't seen our Municipal Opera in Forest Park, our wonderful 72-acre zoo, the famous Lindbergh Trophy from all parts of the world, the Art Museum and Shaw's Garden, you certainly must make a special trip to do so. But even if you have seen everything we have to see, we want you to come again and again, because we are a friendly city and we want to be honest-to-goodness neighbors with you."

"St. Louis is a great city because it is made up of good, wholesome people from communities like yours. In truth, our city has very few of so-called native sons."

Those who were in the party were: T. Maurice Scott, wholesale seedman; Stanley Quisenberry, sales manager, Shapleigh Hdw. Co.; David Hearsch, Vice-President, Berkowitz Envelope Co., and president of the Sales Managers' Bureau; L. W. Proctor, Division Sales Manager, Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co.; Adolph C. Meyer, Vice President, Meyer Bros. Drug Co.; Arthur W. Logan, Sales Manager, Butler Bros.; G. T. Lehmberg, Manager, St. Louis Branch, Parke Davis & Co.; E. Drier, Southeast Missouri Division Manager, Elder Mfg. Co.; Carl F. Roth, Sales Manager, Ed F. Mangelsdorf & Bro. Seed Co.; Charles E. Osterkamp, International Shoe Co., and secretary of the 75million Club; E. W. Kleinschmidt, Assistant Secretary, Mississippi Valley Trust Co.; Scott Wilson, Division Manager, Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co.; A. Floyd Chapman, President, Chapman Sales & Mfg. Co.; J. T. Riley, sales manager, Simmons Hardware Co.; Frank M. See, general agent of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Leo K. Milberger, architect.

BILLIE VALLIE Just An Ordinary Boy Despite His Hob-Nobbing With Leaders in Movieland

Just an ordinary boy is Billie Vallie, just past six years in age, an actor in movieland since he was two years old. Billie will appear here Thursday and Friday at the Malone Theatre to meet some of his Sikeston admirers in person. But to meet him on the street of stage, you will not be able to distinguish him from other six-year-olds. He gets just as mussy playing around; his knees and hands are just as "rusty," and he likes to talk and question his elders just as well as the others.

With his mother, Mrs. Belle Vallie, Billie is making personal appearances at theatres over the country. He has appeared in pictures with Al Jolson, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell and has been in pictures since he was less than two years old.

His favorite picture was "Sunny Side Up," but his favorite actors are Warner Baxter and Greta Garbo. He thinks Janet Gaynor is too "ritz".

Beginning with "Luck Duck," he appeared in 53 pictures in little more than four years. Billie hasn't started to school yet, but his mother is teaching him while they are on the road. He knows his alphabet and can print his name. "I'm learning to write it fancy now," he explains waving a stub pencil "between trips to his tongue to wet the lead point."

Many of the younger generation in Sikeston will recall Billie as a character in the original "Our Gang" comedies.

Scott and Lee Win Cape Golf Honors Sunday

C. C. Scott, for several years one of the Sikeston Country Club leaders, and Sonny Lee, the caddy flash of the local course, tied for top honors Sunday in the annual invitation amateur open golf championship match held on the Cape Girardeau Country Club links, shooting against a field of 36 contestants representing Charleston, Poplar Bluff, Flat River, Ste. Genevieve, West Plains, Cape Girardeau and Sikeston.

Scott qualified in Championship Class with a 41 Sunday morning, and finished championship round, and that afternoon in 39 and 37 for a total of 117 for the 27 holes. Lee qualified with 41 and shot the course in 38-38 in the afternoon for the same total record.

Orville Lumsden, contender with Lee and Scott for top honors against the field in Championship class was two up at the end of 18 holes with a score of 77, but ran into tough luck on the final nine, shooting a 43 which dropped him from further consideration. The winners in Class A and B according to the Southeast Missouri were: In Class A, of 13 players, Tony George, 17-year-old boy from West Plains, captured first place with 118 strokes. Taylor Smith of Farmington was second with 123, while Clyde Schwab of Cape Girardeau was one stroke behind.

In Class B of 9 golfers, Harold Hebbeler of the local club won first place with 134, Paul Teal of Farmington second with 138 and A. W. Mahill of Ste. Genevieve and Luther Snider of Poplar Bluff tied for third place with 140 each.

Kennett and Dexter in the Southeast Missouri tournament were the only two clubs which failed to send a representative.

Those in the championship class were: Lumsden, Scott, Kirk, Lee, Ferguson, Gillis, McClintock, Stiver, Coffey, Harris, Williams, Fern, Ted Borth and Richard Tony.

Those in Class B were: Alexander, Garner, Kneahns, Courtney, Cole, Schwab, Smith, Taubert, Graham, Fred Borth, Sidwell, Readeke, G. Tony.

Those in Class B were: Snider, McMahill, Downs, Teal, Tlapack, Koetting, Bowman, Hebbeler, McMillan.

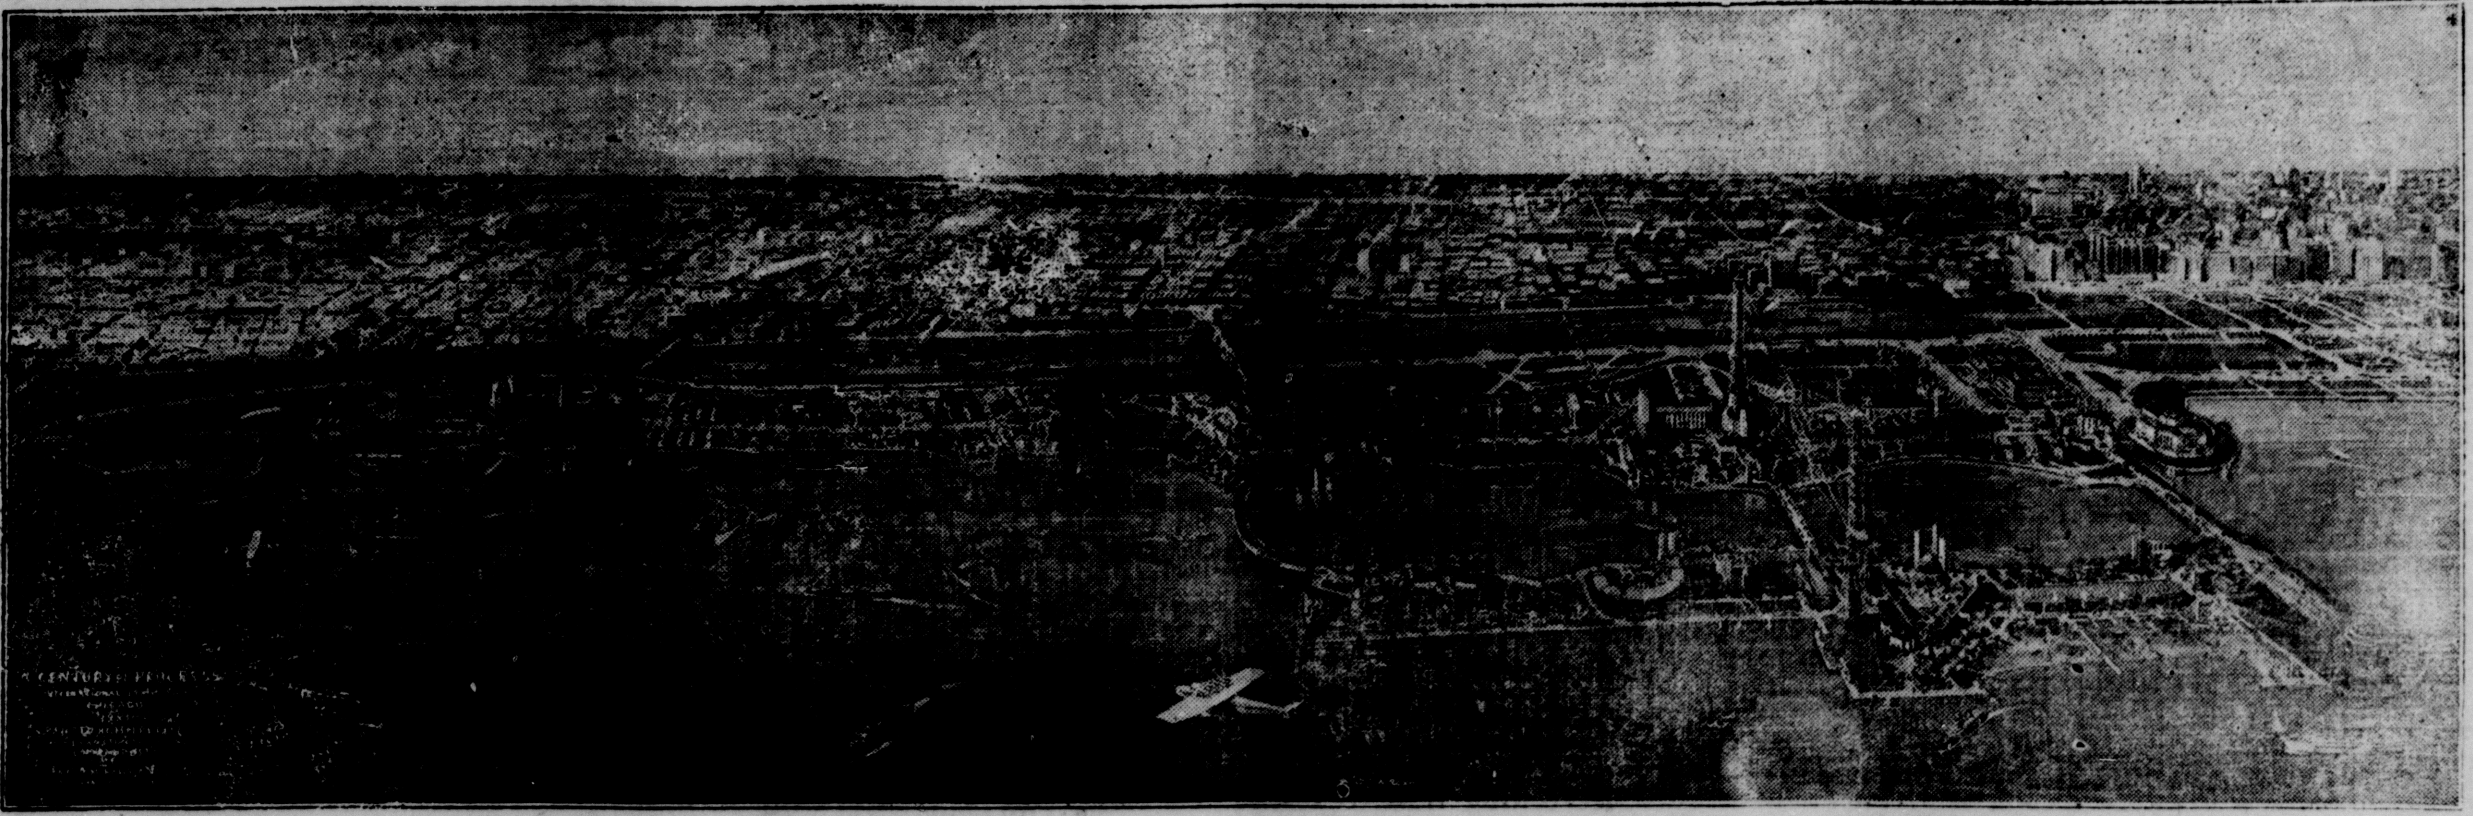

Two East Prairie Boys Face Charges Made by Girls, 15

Howard Sanders and Harold Ishmael, two 20-year-old East Prairie youths, are in the Benton jail facing serious charges preferred by parents of Helen Long, 15, of Bell City, and Mary Elizabeth Kirby, 15, of Benton. The girls allege that they were criminally assaulted Saturday night by the young men in a land off of Highway 55, near the Mifflin farm. Clothing exhibited to Scott County officials tends to bear out the contention of the young girls, it was stated at Benton today.

Elden Clinton, brother of Frank Clinton, was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau, Sunday, where he underwent an operation at 9 o'clock Monday morning for a ruptured appendix. His condition is reported as critical.

AERIAL VIEW OF CHICAGO'S WORLD'S FAIR WHICH OPENED SATURDAY

This panoramic view of A Century of Progress clearly visualizes the magnitude of the Exposition stretched along three miles of Chicago's lake front. In the foreground is Northerly Island, at one end of which is the famed Adler Planetarium, and which is connected to the mainland by three colorful bridges. The sparkling lagoon is also spanned by the Sky-Ride, whose towers loom 628 feet in the air. The Fair with its startling new architectural features and vari-colored tapestry presents a vivid contrast to the towering skyscrapers in the background. The Fair site covers 424 acres of man-made land.

WE THANK YOU ALL

Skeston is grateful to the visiting Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association for the three days of fun, frolic and entertainment last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Drummers have experienced a considerable thinning of ranks since the depression. Curtailed expense accounts, increased individual territories, harder work for less pay, and an entirely new personnel in the profession have had their effect.

Still much of the old-time pep and good nature remains. A few of the older heads manage to keep the organization, which by the way, is the oldest and only remaining organized group of its kind in the United States, intact.

The question why a drummers' convention, often arises. In the case of Skeston, it afforded an opportunity for the entire district to get together; to bring St. Louis to Skeston, and to renew friendship with Charleston, Poplar Bluff and other towns and cities in the district. It solidified the local group of up-and-doing merchants, because committee work necessarily means working together, and it brought about a feeling of understanding and good fellowship between neighboring towns, tradespeople, buyers and sellers.

The convention brought hundreds of articles of merchandise to Skeston to be distributed during a "Trade In Skeston" campaign; it brought a first class boxing card, an entertainment bill of high caliber, a dandy dance band, and fun for the kids of the Skeston district. That pet parade alone was worth the entire cost of the affair, and the big parade Friday—well few towns, thanks to excellent cooperation of a dozen out-of-town units, is hard to duplicate.

To the visiting drummers we say, "Come Again" and to the visiting good will boosters, "We were glad to have you."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our neighbors and friends for their many deeds of kindness during the illness and death of our husband and father, for the beautiful floral offerings, and especially do we thank Rev. J. A. Duncan for his comforting words.

POPPY SALE

The poppy sale under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary, last Friday, was a successful one. A very attractive window display of small white crosses intermingled with red poppies at Dudley's attracted a great deal of attention and no doubt helped with the sales.

The prizes offered by the Auxiliary to the girl and boy Scout selling the most poppies, were awarded to Hita Clymer and G. C. Baker.

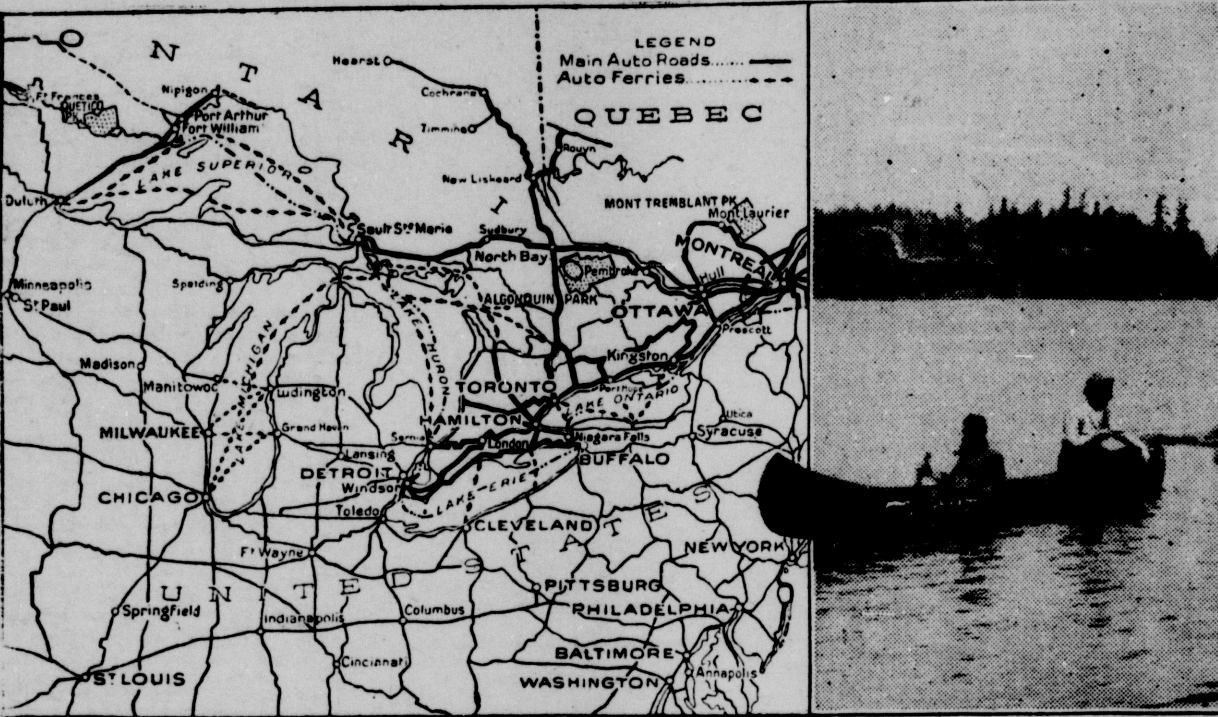

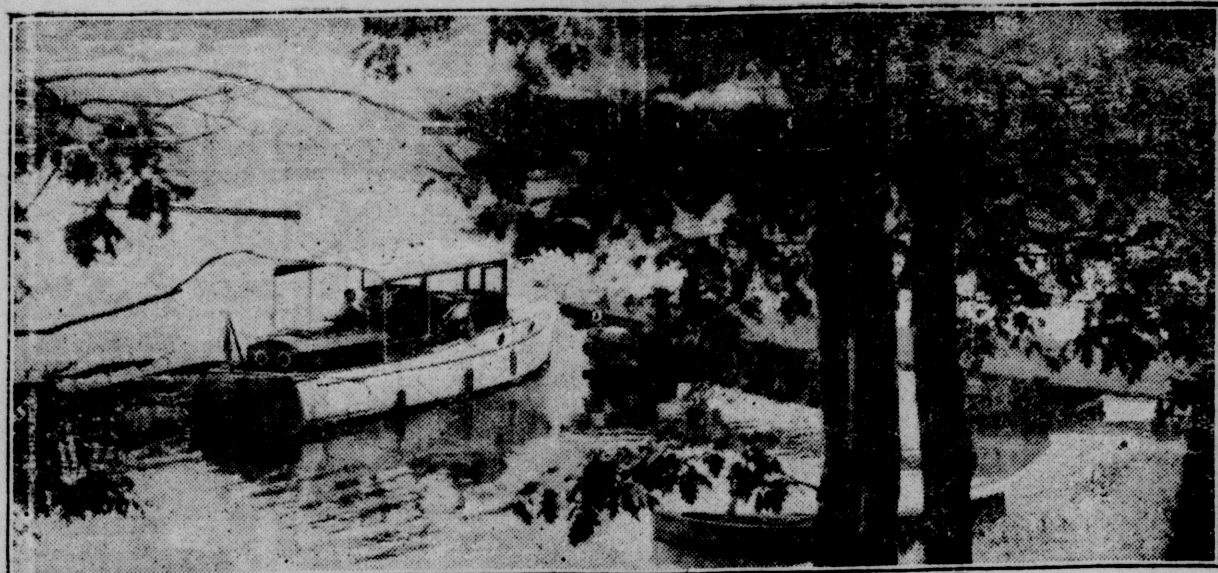

FULBRIGHT TO BE SENATORIAL CANDIDATE

Ex-Congressman James F. Fulbright of Doniphan was here yesterday to attend the commencement exercises at the Southeast Missouri State Teachers College, where his son, Carlton, graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree. Mr. Fulbright was born and reared in this county.

While here Mr. Fulbright told a News representative that he expected to be a candidate for United States Senator to succeed Senator Roscoe Patterson, whose term will expire in 1934. Willis Meredith, of Poplar Bluff, speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives at the recent session of the legislature is also reported to be a candidate. Senator J. C. McDowell of Charleston, State Senator, who was regarded as one of the leading members of the General Assembly, is being mentioned as a candidate for Congressman from this district.—Cape News.

The Bureau also issues a number of booklets of interest to the tourist and sportsman. The maps and booklets are gladly supplied free of charge. Applicants should be as specific as possible as to the particular provinces or districts in which they are interested, in order that other useful information may be supplied.

MATTHEWS-PARKER

A very pretty wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Parker, south of this city, when their daughter, Miss Beulah, was united in marriage to Forrest Matthews of East Prairie. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Z. Matthews, brother of the groom and pastor of the Christian Church of East Prairie. The bride was attired in white with accessories to match while the groom wore a dark business suit. Only immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony.

Mrs. Matthews is a highly accomplished young lady, having graduated from the Matthews high school in 1927. Since that time she has been employed in teaching and for the past three years has taught York school, where she has been re-employed for next year. She was also a student of the Teachers College, and Central Missouri State Teachers College, at Warrensburg.

Mr. Matthews is a highly respected young man and has for quite a while made his home with his brother, Rev. A. Z. Matthews of East Prairie. He is professionally an interior decorator and has been employed in that line of work in East Prairie, where the young couple will reside.

Their many friends offer best congratulations and wish for them a long and happy married life.

Charley Blanton relating in his Sikeston Standard that four bootleggers who pleaded guilty and were freed for certain reasons, relating "no wonder the prohibition law was a failure." That was one of the principal contributing causes why prohibition was a failure—turning loose after police officials had caught them, and a larger contributing cause was that too many police officers were bought off and made no effort to apprehend violators. No law on the Statute books but what is a failure if the officer's—all of them—fail or refuse to do their duty. The prohibition laws of the country never had as much chance of being anything but a failure; not one whit more than a snowball in hell.—Charleston Courier.

Senator J. C. McDowell has declared himself in favor of a sales tax. He said so at Benton last week in a talk at the school conference. He dwelt on the effort of others to defeat it. It is our opinion that we will have to come to it sooner or later and the quicker, the better, and the earlier will the taxpayers be relieved from the excessive burden now being put on lands. McDowell introduced a sales tax measure but it got nowhere. That is, it failed of passage. He does not favor a special session of the legislature but thinks the legislature in 1935 should pass a sales tax measure. It is hoped that he will not change his mind before that time for there is no doubt that property owners will be as greatly in need of relief then as now. The fact will remain that too heavy burden is put on lands and not enough on intangibles and indirect taxation, among which there should be luxuries and some essentials, as we classify them.—Charleston Courier.

Director Laemmle of the movies says pants on women are no longer the go. Editor Blanton of Sikeston says panties are the thing for women to wear, and he is old enough to know.—Jackson Cash-Book.

When a man who for long years has been recognized as one of the most powerful financiers not only in this country but also internationally calmly states on the witness stand that he has paid no income taxes this year nor the two years before one wonders how such evasion is possible, for the average man will never believe that J. P. Morgan did not have an income in excess of $2500 per year. If he did have such net income, then he should have paid a tax. It is such things that produce a growth of revolutionary feeling among the masses.—Jackson Post.

As I See It

—By—
Art L. Wallhausen

Two things should be mentioned before we forget it.
 One is flat tires.

The Man About Town is not the only one to register a complaint regarding the bushels of rusty nails on Moore Avenue, and in the parkway in front of the high school building.

One recent night found six Sikestonians tied up at that building with flats picked up on the spot. Taint right. Although every all-night service station operator gets a grin on his mug when the subject is mentioned.

Seriously though, we wish some of those influential members of the School Board would use that influence, or enough of it to secure the use of the State Highway Department road magnet on Moore and Tanner streets.

Do we hear a second?

There were THREE flats at one time Friday night within 100 yards of the gymnasium.

And the other things is the verbal promise of Jos. L. Matthews to have ceiling fans and ventilators installed in the Armory room.

Man and boy alike, twer'n't a fit night out for man nor beast Friday during the struggle. Three hops, a skip and one jump across that crowded floor, and me and my gal, Sue and her boy friend hit the highways in search of AIR . . . It's a splendid idea if Joe can be reminded of his good intentions from time to time before the snow flies.

The radio entertainer, Ken Wright with his accordion, seemed to strike a universal note with the audience Friday night at the gym . . . and at 6 a. m. the next morning Ken and his buddy were in the studio KMOX dedicating Breakfast Club numbers to Lyle Malone and other boys about town.

That man do move.

Heads of women adorn many of our coins, says one of our married friends . . . and observes he: It takes many coins to adorn the head of his woman.

It is a poor rule that does not work both ways.

Make New Dishes From Left-Overs

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

NO MATTER how carefully we plan and purchase, left-overs frequently occur in every family. Just as a business man is careful that there are no "leaks" in his business, so must the homemaker avoid them by using left-over foods to good advantage. Left-over dishes need not be monotonous; there are many dishes made from remnants of yesterday's dinner so good and attractive in appearance that even the most critical of families will pronounce them excellent. Your family will enjoy having the dishes suggested below and you will find them easily prepared and budget saving.

Left Over Roast Pork with Spaghetti—Cook 1 medium minced onion, and ½ cup finely chopped celery in 4 tablespoons butter until tender. Add 1½ cups diced cooked pork, sprinkle with 1 tablespoon flour, and brown. Add ½ cup milk or water, stirring until thickened, then add 1—21 oz. can Cooked Spaghetti, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce, and cook until Spaghetti is thoroughly heated. Serve hot, and sprinkle with ½ cup grated American cheese.

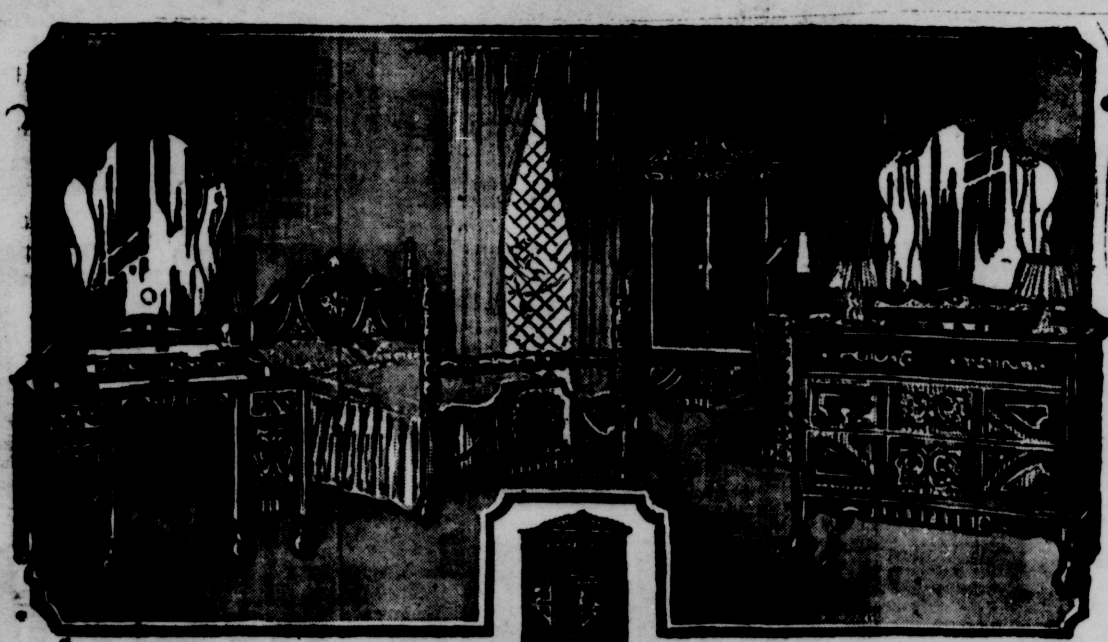

Pork with Mustard Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in skillet. Add 2 tablespoons flour and brown slightly. Add 1 cup milk and stir until sauce thickens. Season with 2 teaspoons Pure Mustard and ½ teaspoon salt. Place 8 to 10 slices of cold pork in sauce and allow to remain till they are heated through. Serve on slices of bread, buttered and toasted on both sides.

Left Over Meat and Tomato Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a frying pan, add 6 medium sized onions thinly sliced, and cook over a low flame until slightly brown, stirring frequently. Add 2 cups Cream of Tomato Soup, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon celery salt, and cook slowly until thick and rich—about ½ hour. Add 2 cups cold cooked beef or veal cut in small pieces or an equal amount of cold sliced meat, heat thoroughly and serve. The recipe serves six.

Left Over Beef Casserole—Mix 2 cups ground cooked beef, 1 cup bread crumbs, ½ cup milk, 2 slightly beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons Chili Sauce, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and place in buttered casserole or baking dish. Cover top with buttered bread crumbs or buttered Rice Flakes. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) for about ½ hour. Serve hot.

Baker Hash Casserole—Mix 3 cups cooked meat, chopped (veal, pork, or combination of meats) 2 cups fresh bread crumbs, 1 cup Cream of Pea Soup (canned) and a dash of pepper. Put in a buttered casserole, cover with buttered crumbs, and bake for 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven (400°F.). Serves 5.

Swinger Wins Decision From Louie Kimmel

Approximately 300 persons saw Herbert Swinger, the sensational Dexter lad win a decision over Louie Kimmel, St. Louisan, in the main go of the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association boxing card held under the lights at the high school athletic field Thursday night. This event was one of seven bouts arranged by a Chamber of Commerce committee for the entertainment of Drummers in convention, their guests and district fight fans.

Swinger took the first two rounds forcing Kimmel constantly. The St. Louis lad had a first line of defense, however, and came through with telling body blows at intervals. The final round was undoubtedly Kimmel's round, but he started his rally too late in the three-round event.

Jackie Thompson, 129-pounder of St. Louis, won a decision from Jimmie Rice, 130 pounds, Corning, Ark., lad in three flashy rounds. The boys entered after the Schuller-Cunningham match, which, at best, started off in a waltz. Thompson and Rice were both willing to swap leather, and rather swapping pleases fight crowds. The boys fought on even terms in the first round, but experience told the tale in the two final rounds. Thompson is at his best, say fight followers, in a ten-round match, but it was impossible to stage a fight of that caliber on a three-round amateur card.

Schuller and Cunningham, the former of Corning, Ark., and, incidentally, under the wing of Roy Custer, who participated in the parade Friday driving a 1910 model Woods Mobelette, spent their entire first round sparring for an opening. Two solid blows were counted in the opener, which was given to Schuller by the judges. Cunningham went down for the count of six in the second but recovered nicely and began to mix things, to the entire satisfaction of the crowd. Schuller maintained his advantage in the third, but the judges called the match a draw. Cunningham hails from Houston, Texas and weighs in at 144 pounds.

One of the two really outstanding bouts of the evening card, featured Young Dosier, 126, of Campbell, Mo., facing Roy Stodfield, 127, of St. Louis. Dosier carried the fight to Stodfield's midsection and head during the first round, rating a number of very effective body punches. Stodfield recovered his composure in the second round, and handed out considerable punishment, but Dosier maintained his advantage with body blows that had their effect. Stodfield attempted to find the Campbell boy, but found his target always on the alert, and usually moving away when punches were sent in his direction. Dosier won the match, hands down.

Walter "Mighty" Ancell and Bob Jackson, rated on the card next to the curtain raisers, proved to be a major attraction. Both boys are scrappers with Ancell holding an advantage with local fight fans due to the fact that he has appeared on a number of local Armory cards. Jackson, however, is solidly built, and has received several months' training at the hands of Cletus Ellis, and held his own to a draw in the match with "Mighty". Bob managed to find Ancell's face during the first part of the match, but had to absorb body punches thru-out the match. Jackson's foot work and excellent recovery made the match with Ancell, who enjoyed a slightly longer reach and more experience about equal. Bob took the first, say the judges; the second was called a draw, while Ancell took the third round to even the stakes. It was a good match.

Better Breakfasts

WHEN the north wind it blows, and the cold nips your nose, and the branches are cracking with ice, then you need something warm to offset the bleak storm, and a good filling breakfast is nice. Then the food in your pot should be hearty and hot, and your overcoat heavy and thick, and the things that you eat should have substance and heat, or the weather will make you feel sick.

But let's get down to prose, although there's nothing prosy about a better breakfast. Here's one for a morning of bitter weather when you need the proteins of meat, the heat of oatmeal and the filling qualities of baked potatoes to help you resist the cold.

Compo of Pears and Apples

 Creamed Chipped Beef

Toast Coffee

Compo of Pears and Apples: Pare and core two large cooking apples, and cut them into eighths. Add one and one-third cups water and one cup sugar to the syrup from a No. 2 can of pears, add a few cloves, and boil for three or four minutes. Add apples, and simmer gently until tender but still in perfect shape. Remove apples, and add pears, whole or cut in halves, and cook until very soft and syrup somewhat thickened. Remove pears to dish with apples, and strain syrup over. Chill. Serves eight.

110-Volt Davis and "Hardhead" Vis' Hambore Douglass Coleman and fought to a draw.

"Skyrocket" and "Snowball" really made the card a success from the start. In the first, clinching was in order, although Skyrocket's infighting made up for several haymaker swings started from the ankles, by Snowball. The judges said "No advantage" for either fighter. In the second round Skyrocket used his left considerably, pounding Snowball's topknot and on one occasion both fighters were floored at the same time, but continued to scrap nevertheless. The referee remained in a neutral corner. In the third round, Snowball landed jabs to the short ribs, but Skyrocket recovered his ministerial poise and swapped blow for blow, giving him the final round.

Paul Slinkard and his Sikeston band entertained the crowd before and during the match with a number of musical selections which seemingly were much appreciated.

A New Deal For Liver Sufferers

Don't be misled any longer. Calomel, salts, oils, mineral waters, laxative pills, herb teas, powders, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargol Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just ferments and decays—Constipation, gas, sour stomach, headache and nervousness follow. Unless you have tried Sargol Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of their effect—You feel stronger, healthier, happier—life and color return to faded eyes and cheeks—appetite and digestion improve rapidly. Only one for a full 30-day treatment, at your druggist, or write to S. P. Wynn, Inc., Atlanta, Georgia.—(adv.)

Emergency Food Shelf Always Ready For Unexpected Guests

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Helas Food Institute

THE Emergency Shelf is becoming standard equipment of almost every household. Our modern idea of marketing is to make as few trips to market as possible. Today it is possible to obtain almost every kind of food in packages that keep indefinitely on pantry shelves. Numberless appetizing meals can be prepared from such supplies and we all know the thrill of feeling that we are ready for any unexpected occasion.

Perishables — fruits, vegetables, milk, eggs, butter—must be ordered in fairly small quantities but canned and packaged goods can be ordered in sufficient amounts to last for weeks and even months. It is more economical to purchase in larger amounts when special prices are effective. We should have on hand ready-to-serve cereals, soups, fish, meat, canned vegetables, and canned and dried fruits, Oven Baked Beans, Cooked Spaghetti, Jellies, and Preserves, Pickles, Relishes, Spanish Olives, Sandwich Spread, Peanut Butter, Mayonnaise Salad Dressing, fruit, gelatin, packaged cheeses, crackers and sweet wafers, and ready-to-serve Fig and Plum Puddings. Below are menus easily and quickly prepared from foods on your supply shelf:

SUPPER MENUS

Tomatoes Stuffed with Baked Bean
Buttered Pickle Salad

Athletics and Charity

Food or clothing was the price of admission to a hockey game between the New York Rangers and Atlantic City Sea Gulls, and here is an impression of the gate receipts.

THE United States is undoubtedly both the most athletic and most charitable nation on earth. Clever philanthropists are now combining these two national traits by holding athletic events of all sorts for charity. And they are accepting food, clothing and fuel as the price of admission, and passing on the proceeds of these unusual gate receipts to the poor. Food, clothing and fuel, properly distributed, are needed by the poor even more than money, so this seems to be an excellent plan.

Even before the banks were closed, the New York Rangers had played a hockey game against the Atlantic City Sea Gulls for which admission tickets were exchanged for foodstuffs and wearing apparel to be given to the poor. This game was played in the vast Auditorium at Atlantic City, and every one of its 22,650 seats, equivalent to about one-quarter of the entire population, was filled.

Splendid Results

After the game, the Rangers visited the quarters in which the stores were being held pending disposal of the goods by the American Red Cross which knows how to do this right. About two tons of provisions were awaiting distribution, and it was a great thing, incidentally, for the Atlantic City merchants. One official estimated that the value of the canned foods alone was approximately $5,000. Before these hockey "tickets" came into possession of the fans, they had to be moved across the grocery counters.

Huge sacks of potatoes, bags of flour, cases of eggs, sides of bacon, hams, crates of vegetables, bags of coffee and cans of food were jammed into two stores fronting the boardwalk. The cellars underneath were also crammed. Besides these, several hundred dollars' worth of orders lay in the office drawer, some of them for tons and half tons of coal, coffee, flour and similar supplies and some for cases of canned foods.

A Liberal Policy

Most of the deluge of groceries rolled in upon the sponsors of the benefit match within three days, and a liberal policy as to what would be accepted was pursued. One little fellow brought in a small package of condensed bouillon, inquiring if he could have two tickets therefore. He got the tickets. Two other tickets were exchanged for dogs.

The morning of the match a boy came in asking if they would accept a red sweater.

"Why, certainly," he was told. "Anything."

"There it is," he beamed triumphantly when he came back with the sweater. "I never did like it. It makes me look like a sheep."

"Gee," he declared, apprehensively, as he departed with his ticket, "my mother will trim me when she finds out I've given that sweater away!"

Aside from this young man's high handed proceeding and apprehensions, this form of charity turned out to be a good thing. Why not have more of it—everywhere? We play games at all seasons, and many persons who are not likely to go into a grocery store would go there fast enough if the object were to gain admission to a game of their favorite sport.

And the price of admission is not so hit or miss as one might be tempted to imagine, especially if it is interpreted into cans of food. Every housewife knows the current prices of canned foods in her neighborhood and can indulge in this charity without being too lavish because she is fully posted on costs.

Canned Foods Currency

There are so many sizes of cans and so many different products canned, that it would even be possible to make change in this sort of charitable barter. If a housewife had more of one product than she needed on her shelves, and wanted to exchange it, or part of it, for something else, even this could be equitably effected.

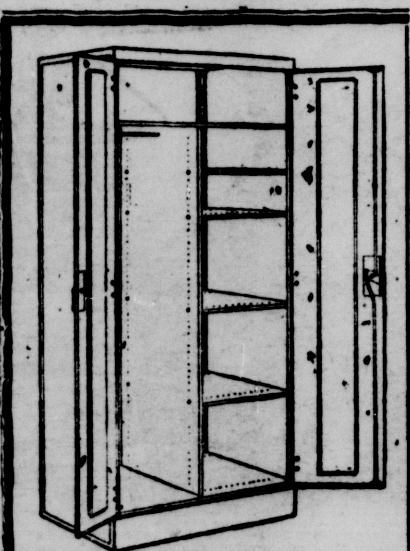

There are now more than two hundred and sixty different foods canned in quantities—vegetables, fruits, fish, meats, specialties, soups, ready-made entrées—and many of these are offered in several sizes. For the expert housewife here is a currency made to order. She knows more about it even than she does about money. She knows her cans by cupfuls and how many each will feed.

KIDS GET PRIZES IN PET PARADE

The pet parade staged here last Friday afternoon by the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association was a colorful affair, with more than 200 children, white and black, participating. Every kind of pet from a bullfinch to a lamb, the latter proudly led down the street by "Mary," were represented. Decorated doll buggies carrying dogs and cats were in profusion.

First in line of the parade was the Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps, followed by a negro Major, dressed in a Civil War Major's suit. Then followed the girls and boys in their various costumes—fairies, circus queens, Indian, bell hop, farmer boys, cowboys, policeman, old-fashioned garbs of some fifty years ago, while some were dressed in white trousers, black frocktail coats and stovepipe hats; red, green, pink and white crepe paper dresses, and others in their "Sunday best", summer frocks of organdies, batistes, silks and prints, each carrying, pushing or leading their pets which had been scrubbed spotlessly clean for the occasion. A few special attractions such as clowns and a negro string band were also included in the parade.

The winners: Frances Ann Newsom, dressed in red and green with a cute cap. Frances led her bulldog, who was also attired in red and green.

Second place went to Elizabeth Wagner, who pulled a red wagon lined with snow white cloth and cotton, and in which six white puppies behaved like veterans at a dog show. It was one of the most striking entries in the parade.

Third place was taken by Viola Taylor with a three-day-old black colt.

Fourth to Rita Lee Turner and her brother, who escorted a decorated white and black cage full of white Rex rabbits.

Blanche Pepper, a circus queen on a pony, was awarded fifth place.

Betty Lee Hirschberg, wheeling a snow white puppy in a pink doll buggy, was given sixth place.

In the boys' division, Joe Arbaugh won first.

John Dover with "Henny Penny", a bantam hen on a nest second.

Junior Collins third, Art Swack fourth, Doyle Heath showing a parrot in a cage, fifth.

In the negro children's pet parade, Charles and Chester Hill won first and second place, respectively.

CHAS. KEITH AND CHILDHOOD SWEETIE WERE WED SUNDAY

Thwarted romance had its day Sunday afternoon, when Charles Keith, now to every business man in Sikeston, and his first love, Mrs. Fern Lankford, nee Fern Johnson, were united in marriage at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. E. H. Grear, pastor of the local Methodist church, who read the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Scott, 626 Kendall street. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yamitz and Mr. and Mrs. Gord Dill were witnesses.

The Johnson-Keith romance fell through many years ago, and his bride-to-be married the other man, Bert Lankford. She reared a family of five, subsequently received a divorce, and Sunday patched up the old romance and with her first sweetheart decided to give marriage another whirl. For the past several years, Mrs. Keith has been employed as a nurse at the Brandon Hospital, Poplar Bluff.

Mr. Keith is known in Sikeston and other towns in the district as one of the best sign painters in the district. He will remain here for some time to complete various business matters, after which he and his recent bride will make their home in Poplar Bluff.

Oilers Must Defend Title In Ball League

The Standard Oilers will be called upon to maintain their position at the head of the percentage column facing the cellar team, Potashnick Truckers in the Thursday Muncy League game.

The deadlock existing at the end of the first eight games with the Internationals and Midwest Aces will be broken Tuesday when those two teams meet to decide which one goes up one notch or slides into third place.

Both games this week in the Muncy League series promise to be unusually fast, especially since Manager Kirby of the Aces signed a Morley "dark horse" who is equally good on the mound and at bat.

The Truckers with one of the best all-around lineups in the League suffer from lack of good pitching says manager Duke Weidemann, who claims the fault, if it is a fault, will be corrected soon. "They will not be in the basement Ima telling you," says the Duke, "at the close of the next round."

We shall see.

Standing of the teams:
Standard Oil 3 1 .750
Internationals 2 2 .500
Midwest Aces 2 2 .500
Potashnick 1 3 .250

Use Your Bean

If you use your own bean you can find many new ways to serve that satisfying vegetable beans so that it will always seem something new. We've been using our own bean on this problem, and here are a few suggestions:

Kidney Bean Luncheon Dish: Turn the contents of two No. 2 cans of red kidney beans into a saucepan, and add the contents of one 8-ounce can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple and two diced oranges. Cook for six to eight minutes and serve. This serves eight.

Baked Beans in Tomato Cases: Cut off slices from the tops of six large ripe tomatoes, and scoop out centers. Dust inside with salt, and brush with the merest suspicion of prepared mustard. Fill with the contents of a one pound one-ounce can of baked beans, and sprinkle the tops with one-third cup grated cheese. Bake for twenty to twenty-five minutes in a 375° oven. Serves six.

Curry Favor with This

Curried Baked Beans: Fry one-fourth pound bacon, and remove to dish to keep hot. Add two shredded green peppers to the bacon fat, and sauté until a golden brown. Add the contents of two No. 2 cans of beans cooked as in the luncheon recipe, two cups canned tomatoes, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and one teaspoon curry powder, and simmer fifteen to twenty minutes, or until slightly thickened. Serve garnished with the bacon slices and whole sweet gherkins. Serves eight.

"As I See It—"

By Art L. Welhausen

Southeast Missouri, like other parts of the State, gains considerable fame through a homely expression, "You All."

We suggest that the Chamber of Commerce or Lions Club, the City or some other organization capitalize on this folk expression.

Eight signs, two at each entrance and exit of the city should read "You all are welcome" and "Thank you all", one facing incoming and the other outgoing traffic.

It may not meet with the approval of English teachers, but it will send folks away from Sikeston thinking of that town where "You All" are welcome.

Whadya say, Lyle and John?

From Neosho, Mo., home town of John Tandy, State Highway Trooper, comes an invitation to put on a swimming demonstration in the Morse pool of that city.

The invitation to participate in the full dress uniform swimming exhibition came through E. C. Coulter, bank executive of that city who had heard of Tandy's unscheduled exhibition at Poplar Bluff, May 20.

Tandy has not accepted.

Blondie of the FOLLIES

CHAPTER XXII

Blondie and Pratt were standing in the ship's bar. She had looked at him with a pompous, told him about the boat, using his newly acquired nautical vocabulary. Now she was talking to him with a sleek, sleekness.

"I think the Follies are very fortunate. You're a very decorative young lady."

"I've been called a lot of things. And you start rehearsals for about three weeks, I suppose?" said Pratt as he poured some champagne into their glasses.

"Yes—Mr. O'Brien—do you know him? He was great...gave me a couple of looks..."

"I don't blame him. I feel like looking at you myself," and Pratt's face moved in closer to her.

"I've never been on a yacht before," said Blondie, quickly.

"I hope you're coming often..."

"I'm raising my glass. 'Drink up!'"

"I had too much of this last night—oh-h-h-h!" exclaimed Blondie, holding her glass.

"The bubble of life!"

"The bubble of life?"

"Yes, mean...and they drank."

"Hello, Blondie!" Larry had approached unnoticed.

"Oh, Mr. Belmont!" said Blondie, trying to be cold.

"How's Pa?"

"Okay!"

"Now—here's the bridge up here..." said Pratt, impatiently.

"What does she want to see the bridge for? Just a lot of old com- pases and charts...you don't want to see the bridge?" said Larry.

"Pratt glared at Larry and started to move away."

"Are you coming?" he asked Blondie.

"I want a word with this child," Larry said. "I'm an old friend of the family, eh, Blondie?"

"Are you kidding?" Pratt was annoyed.

"Oh, I hate you! I wish I'd never met you!"

"I told you—that's over!" Larry said emphatically.

"Since when?"

"Today."

"I won't say it was because of you—because it wasn't altogether—but truthfully, last night decided me..." and Larry suddenly seized both her arms, looking her squarely in the eyes.

"Break!" They both turned at the sound of Lurline's voice. "What's the idea?" she asked.

"I'm going home," said Larry, glaring at her.

"What's keeping you... good night!" said Lurline, sarcastically.

Larry started to reply, thought better of it, and stalked away, leaving the two girls alone.

"Oh, Lurline, I couldn't help it..." pleaded Blondie.

"No?"

"You know—I don't want to see him—but I do..."

ers organization, and Auditor Nolan of Jefferson City. Sikeston's leading industry for the second time within a month demonstrated its real strength and offered an opportunity of employees accom- modated by the local plant.

A Buckner Ragsdale float, fea- turing "75" Club banners, and ad- vertising International Shoes came next in line. The machine was driven by Mrs. Pauline Henry, who had three attractive young ladies to add beauty and dignity to the show.

An ancient automobile, vintage 1910 and manufactured by the Woods Mobelette Company, was brought here from Piggott, Ark., to take part in the event Friday. The automobile was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Custer, who operate a day and night garage in the Arkansas city.

Paul Taubert's Poplar Bluff clown band came next in line. The musicians were dressed in flashy, original costumes and amused the watchers and children especially. The organization, said one mem- ber of the Poplar Bluff Chamber of Commerce, is not very old in terms of years, but it is a live wire organization and is one of the features of which the good will builders for the Butler County city are justly proud.

Nearly 300 International Shoe Factory men, dressed in black trousers, white shirts, blue neck- ties and caps of white and blue marched four abreast in order. This section alone was more than a city block in length.

Three floats came next in order. The first, a decorated automobile entered by Sheppard's Cafe pre- sented Miller Jean Moll, dressed as a chef, riding astride the hood of- fering a delightful sandwich in- dicative of the quality foods sold by the restaurant. The entry of the Southeast Missouri Telephone Co., featured a huge telephone set mounted on a Ford pickup truck. The next float, a comedy trio, com- posed of Mrs. Fred Kirby, Mrs. Gus Martin and Mrs. Ernest Ton- gate, passed in review. A delapi- dated wagon drawn by a mule fin- ished the picture of depression at its worst.

A Sikeston kids band, composed of Paul Kelly, R. C. Westmoreland, Vernon Gehan and Ernest Dale Campbell, furnished yazo, harp and violin music.

Next in order came the Boy Scout drum and bugle corps and Sikeston Scouts, a drummer clown and more children, a section of horsemen and lady riders, bike rid- ers, and the Sikeston municipal band.

The rest of the parade was com- posed of commercial entries in- cluding the Coca Cola beer truck, a Dexter theatre sound equipped automobile, new Plymouths and the Langley garage wrecker, a Budweiser truck and "negro" band, Greenway Market and Schorle Butter street trucks and private automobiles.

From leadoff band, Col. Sey- more's veteran musicians to the funniest float, the parade was in- teresting. At the grade school building, more than 1500 white and negro school children, each group in charge of a teacher, joined the marchers.

As the kiddies passed the Malone Park, Col. Seymore's band struck up appropriate melodies, including that ancient tune known to every grammar school child. As the ne- gro contingent passed, the music was hastily switched to "Dixie," and finally as Country Club and Budweiser trucks passed slowly in review, the band offered, "How Dry I Am."

You have to eat a peck of dirt Sometime before you die, But I insist the air I breathe Be washed but not too dry.

HEN Lowell sang of the rare June day, he probably did not visualize the time when every day might be a June day indoors, at least. That is exactly what the air sci- entist, or aerologist, has made pos- sible. He has analyzed the perfect June day and learned its constitu- ent parts, and then, with the aid of the engineer, he has devised equip- ment that makes it possible to have a June day in the home every day in the year.

In the next few months, when Old Sol seems in league with the hot winds and the humidity to see how much discomfort can be in- flicted on his poor humans, tens of thousands of homes throughout the country will serve their owners as virtual mountain summer resorts, even though far from stream or forest. These are the homes that have been completely air-conditioned by small, inexpensive units that have been introduced since the first of the year. These systems, which operate in conjunction with or in- dependent of the central heating system of the house, attain cooling by passing the home air through sprays of cool water which at the same time also removes excess moisture from the air. By this method not one room but every room in the house is flooded with cool, washed gently moving air.

One feature about summer cool- ing of homes should be emphasized, states the Holland Institute of Air- Conditioning. Do not chill the air. Many of our cooled theaters and restaurants are uncomfortable be- cause the air is too cool. During summer we are most comfortable in a temperature of 76 to 80 degrees. In fact, it is the consensus of air- conditioning experts, medical au- thorities, neurologists and physi- ologists, that indoor temperature should not vary more than 10 to 15 degrees from outdoor tempera- tures even during very hot weather. This makes for complete physical comfort and obviates the possibility of shock to the body or nervous system.

2-Mile Parade Is Feature of Drummer's Meet

Sheriff Joe Anderson and other Scott County law officers.

Miss Sikeston, in the person of Lynnette Stallcup, was next pre- sented to her home city riding on a float which a week ago won 1st place in a district competition in Poplar Bluff. Next came two other district beauty "queens", in- cluding Marie Schwaner, chosen as the outstanding beauty in the dis- trict, and Miss Roberta Jones of Kennett, riding with Miss Ruth and Powell, and two guests from Poplar Bluff.

Two drummer clowns, Stanley Knippenberg and Frank A. Broe, surrounded by a dozen admirers, trooped next in line to be followed by the Poplar Bluff high school band and a delegation of 45 mem- bers of the Poplar Bluff Chamber of Commerce.

The Charleston high school band under the direction of F. F. Fish and led by a peppy drum major led the visiting St. Louis Chamber of Commerce delegation. The Blue Jay band made a strik- ing appearance in snappy white uniforms topped off by a blue cape and hat of matching color, and is composed of real musicians. Sixty business leaders from St. Louis marched in the procession.

The Sikeston drum and bugle corps followed next in line, and earned the reputation of being the finest outfit in the parade. Dil- igent drilling and excellent cadence added greatly to the appearance of the Henry Meldrum Post, Legion group.

A comic float worthy of the first place it later won in competition with other entries, came next. The ancient vehicle was piloted by Mrs. E. G. Buchanan, and included in its ramshackle, sign bedecked body the following: Mrs. Harry Young, Mrs. Earl Johnson, Mrs. Lyle Malone and Mrs. Earl Malone.

SIKESTON STANDARD

Southeast Missouri's Leading Semi-Weekly

VOLUME 21 SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 30, 1933 NUMBER 69

Sometimes we wonder if we are getting all out of life that we should. By this we do not mean running around, carousing, and that sort of stuff, but to make somebody else happy who are not blessed with good health and enough to eat. To have a pleasant word to children and a respect for our elders. To do a favor without a thought of pay. At our age we believe we would be supremely happy if we could sit in the shade, watch the fish in our pool come for their food, in the way of a moderate flow of nickles come to one pocket and a fair amount of candy to the other and have boys and girls visit us often.

We are glad that God has so made us that we can make friends with small boys and girls and we trust we shall never betray their confidence. A few days ago a small boy came into the office for a visit and in his way approached a subject that was giving him much concern. Another lad was waiting across the street with a bicycle on which the two had ridden to town. After visiting for a while, the lad said he guessed he would go down and see his Dad as he had promised the other boy if he could get a nickel he would buy some candy and divided it with him. Then he said if he went down to see his Dad he might find him out on a prospect. We asked him what a prospect was and he said it was to try to make a sale. Any way, he said if he went down to the place of business his Dad might be in Malden and if he wasn't, he might not have a nickel. What would you have done under the circumstances if you had a nickel? We fixed him up and the two lads rode off on the bicycle apparently satisfied and we were well paid for the story.

International Shoe Day and the Drummers' Convention have been great occasions for Sikeston and Southeast Missouri. They gave us opportunities to forget our worries, become better acquainted and bring folks to our city from miles around. Good fellowship and good entertainment is greatly appreciated at this time and we feel certain that Sikeston gave all of that to our visitors.

Let's back a school band similar to the organizations of Poplar Bluff and Charleston. Many pupils in our school are now splendid musicians and with proper training by a bandmaster will be second to none. These visiting school organizations advertise their city and add greatly to the prestige of their school. The Charleston band, with attractive uniforms were very striking. In fact we felt like shaking hands with all the boys and kissing all the girls beginning with the drum major.

An exchange truthfully remarks "that the printing press has made presidents, killed poets, furnished bustles for beauties and polished genius with criticism. It has curtailed the power of Kings, graced the pantry shelves, and busted. It has converted bankers into paupers and made lawyers out of college presidents. It has educated the homeless and robbed the philosopher of his reason. It smiles and cries and dies but it cannot be run to suit everybody, and the Editor is a fool that tries it".

There are times in the lives of most of us when we need a friend. The red headed dispenser of joy water who languished in the jail at Benton phoned some of her Sikeston customers to come to Benton and bail her out. Did they do it? They never heard of her before and didn't know her now.

Liquor and jealousy is a mighty bad combination. It sometimes makes a man whip his wife and later fills him with remorse.

The cover page of this week's issue of The Saturday Evening Post contains the picture of a young woman in a pensive mood. In the mist above appears the heads of four young men—the cause of her deep thought. She is trying to figure out which of the four she likes the best—all of them like her. This is what the coverage page denotes. The advice to this, or any other young lady, is to first find out which can furnish the meal ticket, and next which has the best disposition. The handsomest may be the least desirable, the best dancer, the meanest, and the ugliest has all the good points that a woman might hope for.

The next event on the card for Sikeston that should give us some favorable publicity is the Southeast Missouri Editorial Association scheduled for Friday, June 16, for one day only. This is a meeting of publishers to talk shop and ways and means to make a living and help their communities.

Manager: "I hear you and the leading lady are on the outs". Electrician: "Yeah. It was one of those quick change scenes with the stage all dark. She asked for her lights and I thought she said lights".—Ohio State Sun Dial.

Married folks who go to a dance, get full, get out into a car and wrap up in one another's arms like a pair of snakes are bound to have somebody see them and have some talk made about them. Better go to some house and save talk and trouble. This is no joke, either.

Sikeston in co-operation with the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association, the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, a Poplar Bluff delegation, the Charleston band, visiting beauty queens and the co-operation of this entire community staged one of the most colorful parades ever conducted in the city Friday afternoon.

In length, striking appearance and originality, the event outclassed even the highly successful International Day parade held recently.

The two-mile parade was named an outstanding good will builder by Emil Hartman, president of the Drummers' Association. "We have not been accorded such a welcome, nor have we been privileged to witness a demonstration of like magnitude in many, many years," commented the president of the oldest and only remaining organization of its kind in the United States.

John Young, Sikeston's original parade master was chiefly responsible for the successful handling of the difficult task. The paraders were assembled on East street and the International Shoe Factory grounds in southeast Sikeston, and the line of march extended westward along Malone to the grade school building, where more than 1500 school children were added to the line, north on Stoddard to Front, east to Kingshighway, and north on that avenue to Center street. The paraders marched west on Center to Malone Park, where presents were distributed to children, floats judged and where the several bands and Chambers of Commerce organizations serenaded and entertained for more than an hour.

Nimrods Predict Unusual Season Starting Tuesday

Missouri's fishing season opens Tuesday, May 30! Dozens of anglers spent Sunday evening looking over prospective "best places" in anticipation of one of the best fishing seasons in years, due to the fact that ditches, lakes, rivers and large streams in the district have carried an unusual volume of water this spring, giving fish an opportunity to run far upstream to spawn.

One Sikestonian drove approximately 60 miles Sunday visiting Big Lake, north of Charleston, the Drinkwater spillway, Brewer's Lake, Roark Holte, and dozens of ditches from East Prairie to west of Highway 61.

"The prospects for an excellent fishing season never looked better," he reported.

"Big Lake is still confined with the spillway on the Drinkwater levee closed. Mississippi River men expect a stage of 54 feet at Cairo this week which means that the spillway gates are still closed. The river level is still many feet above the level of Big Lake which stretches out of hundreds of acres of farm land. Brewer's Lake is still very high, the water lapping close to the club house. Most ditches, with the exception of the North Cut ditch are almost normal," he said, "although some still carry quite a bit of sediment".

Another local nimrod visited streams around Doniphan and the Ozark country generally. Streams there were characterized as "mucky", but local followers of the sport predict a successful season.

SCOUTS TO FORM PRESS CLUB HERE

Cecil G. Morrison, Scout executive in this district has issued an invitation to older Boy Scouts to meet next Thursday, June 1, at the City Hall for the purpose of discussing and possibly organizing a press club. The work is part of the "Old Boys' Scout Program", says Mr. Morrison in a letter to Vernon Bowles, in charge of Sea Scout work here. Local members of the latter group will give a short demonstration at the Thursday night affair which will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

"Indians" Meet In Charleston Tuesday, May 30

Charleston, May 26.—The St. Louis Tribes of the Indian Guides will hold a PowWow with the Charleston Tribe at the Hoe Cake Indian Mounds, south of Aniston, Tuesday, May 30.

The Capaha Tribe was organized at Charleston in January by Harold C. Keltner of St. Louis and Iron Moccasin, a Chickasaw Indian, president of the Indian Club of St. Louis.

The Indian Guides is a father and son organization and meets twice a month at the homes of the various members.

Dr. Harry Crowe is chief of the Capaha tribe, Paul W. Hummel, Tally Keeper, William Chron, Wampum Collector, F. M. Forbey, Tom Tom Beater and Sidney Friedman, Indian Runner.

DRUMMERS PICK POPLAR BLUFF FOR '34 MEET

BUSINESS SESSION SATURDAY CLOSING 3-DAY PROGRAM

A business session Saturday morning closed a three-day convention of the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association, with the unanimous selection of Poplar Bluff as the 1934 convention city, and election of the following officers for next year:

President—Bert B. Butz, of Cape Girardeau.
Vice-president—Stanley Knippenberg of St. Louis.
Secretary—Geo. Wecker.
Treasurer—A. W. Poilack.
Warden—Geo. Nagle of Poplar Bluff.

The invitation of visit to the Butler County city in 1934 was extended on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce by J. I. Dunn, genial manager of the Ducker Hotel. "What it takes, we have it", summarizes the invitation, the acceptance of which takes the oldest and only remaining organization of its kind to Poplar Bluff next year.

Mayor N. E. Fuchs invited the Drummers to return to Sikeston next year and promised an even better program of entertainment than was arranged last week-end. A rule of long standing not to hold successive yearly meetings in the same city shelved this motion, although Sikeston received several votes on the first ballot.

The whole-hearted co-operation of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce, and the entire faculties of the organization were extended to Poplar Bluff by Lyle Malone, president of the local civic group which staged the unusually successful convention program.

"We deeply appreciate the fine spirit of co-operation evinced by Poplar Bluff, by St. Louis, Charleston, Piggott, Ark., and other nearby towns and Chamber of Commerce organization", said Mr. Malone, "and we want Poplar Bluff to know that Sikeston stands ready with any advice or service at any time to make the convention a success for Poplar Bluff. In fact", he added, "the co-operative spirit shown during the past convention alone makes the effort worth while".

Sikeston received many words of praise for the manner in which the program was staged, and the program of entertainment, which offered fun and diversion for hundreds of persons in the city and nearby district, was handled.

A kids pet show, a trapshoot event, real boxing card and a dance were features of the Thursday program. Friday was devoted to staging a monster parade, a program of first class local and radio talent that night, a What Night Club, and a dance at the Armory. The business session Saturday morning was held in the Malone Theatre.

Total registration of memberships during the convention was 88, according to George Wecker, secretary, who also registered 233 guests and visitors at Hotel Marshall headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson and daughter, Miss Helen, and Miss Mary Ethel Smith, were in Oak Ridge, Sunday afternoon.

LOCALS BLANK ILLMO SUNDAY BY 1-0 SCORE

SIKESTON MANAGERS PLAN INDEPENDENT BALL

The Sikeston Independents Sunday opened the baseball season by defeating Illmo-Fornfelt, one to nothing when Johnson circled the bases in the fourth, scoring the lone run of the game. In every department of the game the visitors and locals played on even terms, each netting five safeties, scattered and harmless as far as tallies were concerned. Both teams turned in errorless baseball backing up excellent pitching with air-tight fielding. Butler was on the mound for Sikeston and struck out eight visiting batsmen, while McMullin and P. Bray divided the hill work for Illmo-Fornfelt retired nine local boys swinging.

Ted Kirby and Roy Beard are being credited with organizing the locals, picking a first string from a wide range of material offered in the Munny series. It was first decided to join the Southeast Missouri League, but after the Sunday contest, Sikeston decided to play independent baseball, choosing the pick of the district. Such teams as the Charleston Cardinals, Cape Girardeau Capahs, Poplar Bluff Red Birds and others will be signed up for games it was announced.

The batteries for Sunday's game for Illmo-Fornfelt, P. Bray and McMullin pitch, Cruse catch; for Sikeston, Butler pitch, Lambaugh catch. Umpires: McMullin and Heisler, scorer, Smith of Sikeston.

The score:
Illmo-Fornfelt.....000 000 0 0 5 0
Sikeston.....000 100 000 1 5 0

Successful Dance Ends Program of Fun Friday Nite

A two-hour program of dancing, music and special numbers was offered for the entertainment of visiting drummers and guests at the high school auditorium Friday evening, featuring Ken Wright and the Royal Hawaiians of radio station KMOX, St. Louis. A local chorus of beauties trained originally for the Lions Night Club entertainment was presented under the direction of Mrs. Mickey Brower, as a feature specialty. The personnel of the chorus included the following: Genevieve Putnam, Marjorie Mow, Mae Pepper, Jenae Sells, Katherine Jane Mitchell, Mary Emma Powell, Hazel Young and Neva Mae Taylor.

Ken Wright remained in town until 1 o'clock attending the Armory dance featuring Eddie Randall, and the following morning at 6 o'clock was broadcasting from KMOX, dedicating part of the program to members of the Sikeston committee on arrangements.

Following the "Radiolites" program approximately 265 Southeast Missouri dance couples enjoyed music by Eddie Randall's "Seven Blue Devils", a radio broadcasting feature band which made a unanimous hit with the dance crowd.

A SOUR NOTE

Randall's band was delayed for one hour by two flat tires and the unfortunate experience of running out of gasoline a few miles north of Sikeston on Highway 61. Sensesbaugh's trouble shooter remedied the latter situation, and chased away the three time jinx which seemingly followed the dark complexioned music makers from St. Louis.

"It was the largest dance crowd of my experience", commented Art Sensesbaugh, chairman of the committee in charge, and Sensesbaugh, incidentally has been chairman of the American Legion dance committee for some time. Visiting drummers, their guests, and hundreds of local and district dancers crowded the Armory floor to capacity, and was it hot, literally speaking?

SCOUTS OPEN CAMP-O-RALL

The public is invited to attend all activities of the camp, but especially are they invited to attend the Court of Honor. Wilbur Ensor, District Commissioner and Cecil Morrison, Scout Executive will be in charge of the camp.

The Auxiliary of the American Legion will entertain their husbands with a weiner roast in the hills near Morley, Wednesday evening.

ST. LOUISIANS PAY RESPECTS TO SIKESTON

DELEGATION HEADED BY BAND HERE FRIDAY

A delegation of wide-awake and bustling business executives and representatives from St. Louis paid a visit to Sikeston Friday to brush elbows and talk shop with local merchants and citizens. The large group was headed by the famous Col. Seymour's band, a versatile organization of real musicians, and participated in a large way with the three-day convention of the Southeast Missouri Drummers' organization.

The visit here was part of a two-day tour of nine Southeast Missouri towns under the auspices of the Sales Managers' Bureau of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. Towns visited on the trip included DeSoto, Bismarck, Ironton-Arcadia, Piedmont, Poplar Bluff, Dexter, Charleston and this city.

David Hersh, president of the Sales Managers' Bureau, expressed great satisfaction with his visit here. "You have a progressive group of merchants and a splendid type of citizens", he said, "and we are glad of this opportunity to pay you a call. By visits such as this we are enabled to become better acquainted and be real neighbors as we all desire to be."

"We invite you to come to St. Louis whenever you can and enjoy our hospitality, as we have yours. St. Louis is making a special effort for this summer and fall to have people in her trade territory visit the city and see its sights. If you haven't seen our Municipal Open Air Operas in Forest Park, our wonderful 72-acre zoo, the famous Lindbergh Trophy from all parts of the world, the Art Museum and Shaw's Garden, you certainly must make a special trip to do so. But even if you have seen everything we have to see, we want you to come again and again, because we are a friendly city and we want to be honest-to-goodness neighbors with you."

"St. Louis is a great city because it is made up of good, wholesome people from communities like yours. In truth, our city has very few of so-called native sons."

Those who were in the party were: T. Maurice Scott, wholesale Seedman; Stanley Quisenberry, sales manager, Shapleigh Hdwe. Co.; David Hersh, Vice-President, Berkowitz Envelope Co., and president of the Sales Managers' Bureau; L. W. Proctor, Division Sales Manager, Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co.; Adolph C. Meyer, Vice President, Meyer Bros. Drug Co.; Arthur W. Logan, Sales Manager, Butler Bros.; G. T. Lehnberg, Manager, St. Louis Branch, Parke Davis & Co.; E. J. Drier, Southeast Missouri Division Manager, Elder Mfg. Co.; Carl F. Roth, Sales Manager, Ed F. Mangelsdorf & Bro. Seed Co.; Charles E. Osterkamp, International Shoe Co., and secretary of the 75million Club; E. W. Kleinschmidt, Assistant Secretary, Mississippi Valley Trust Co.; Scott Wilson, Division Manager, Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co.; A. Floyd Chapman, President, Chapman Sales & Mfg. Co.; J. T. Riley, sales manager, Simmons Hardware Co.; Frank M. See, general agent of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Leo K. Milberger, architect. (Continued on page 6)

BILLIE VALLIE Just An Ordinary Boy Despite His Hob-Nobbing With Leaders in Movieland

Just an ordinary boy is Billie Vallie, just past six years in age, an actor in movieland since he was two years old. Billie will appear here Thursday and Friday at the Malone Theatre to meet some of his Sikeston admirers in person.

But to meet him on the street off stage, you will not be able to distinguish him from other six-year-olds. He gets just as mussy playing around; his knees and hands just as "rusty", and he likes to talk and question his elders just as well as the others.

With his mother, Mrs. Belle Vallie, Billie is making personal appearances at theatres over the country. He has appeared in pictures with Al Jolson, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell and has been in pictures since he was less than two years old.

His favorite picture was "Sunny Side Up", but his favorite actors are Warner Baxter and Grata Garbo. He thinks Janet Gaynor is too "ritzy".

Beginning with "Luck Duck", he appeared in 53 pictures in title more than four years.

Billie hasn't started to school yet, but his mother is teaching him while they are on the road. He knows his alphabet and can print his name. "I'm learning to write it fast now", he explains waving a stub pencil "tween trips to his tongue to wet the lead pencil."

Many of the younger generation in Sikeston will recall Billie as a character in the original "Our Gang" comedies.

Scott and Lee Win Cape Golf Honors Sunday

C. C. Scott, for several years one of the Sikeston Country Club leaders, and Sonny Lee, the caddy flash of the local course, tied for top honors Sunday in the annual invitation amateur open golf championship match held on the Cape Girardeau Country Club links, shooting against a field of 36 contestants representing Charleston, Poplar Bluff, Flat River, Ste. Genevieve, West Plains, Cape Girardeau and Sikeston.

Scott qualified in Championship Class with a 41 Sunday morning, and finished championship rounds that afternoon in 39 and 37 for a total of 117 for the 27 holes. Lee qualified with 41 and shot the course in 38-38 in the afternoon for the same total record.

Orville Lunsden, contender with Lee and Scott for top honors against the field in Championship class was two up at the end of 18 holes with a score of 77, but ran into tough luck on the final nine, shooting a 43 which dropped him from further consideration.

The winners in Class A and B according to the Southeast Missourian were: In Class A, of 13 players, Tony George, 17-year-old boy from West Plains, captured first place with 118 strokes. Taylor Smith of Farmington was second with 123, while Clyde Schwab of Cape Girardeau was one stroke behind.

In Class B of 9 golfers, Harold Hebbeler of the local club won first place with 134, Paul Teal of Farmington second with 138 and A. W. Mahill of Ste. Genevieve and Luther Snider of Poplar Bluff tied for third place with 140 each.

Kennett and Dexter in the Southeast Missouri tournament, were the only two clubs which failed to send a representative.

Those in the championship class were: Lunsden, Scott, Kirk, Lee, Ferguson, Gillis, McClintock, Stiver, Coffey, Harris, Williams, Fern, Ted Borth and Richard Tony.

Those in Class A were: Alexander, Garner, Knehan, Courtney, Cole, Schwab, Smith, Taubert, Graham, Fred Borth, Sidwell, Readeke, G. Tony.

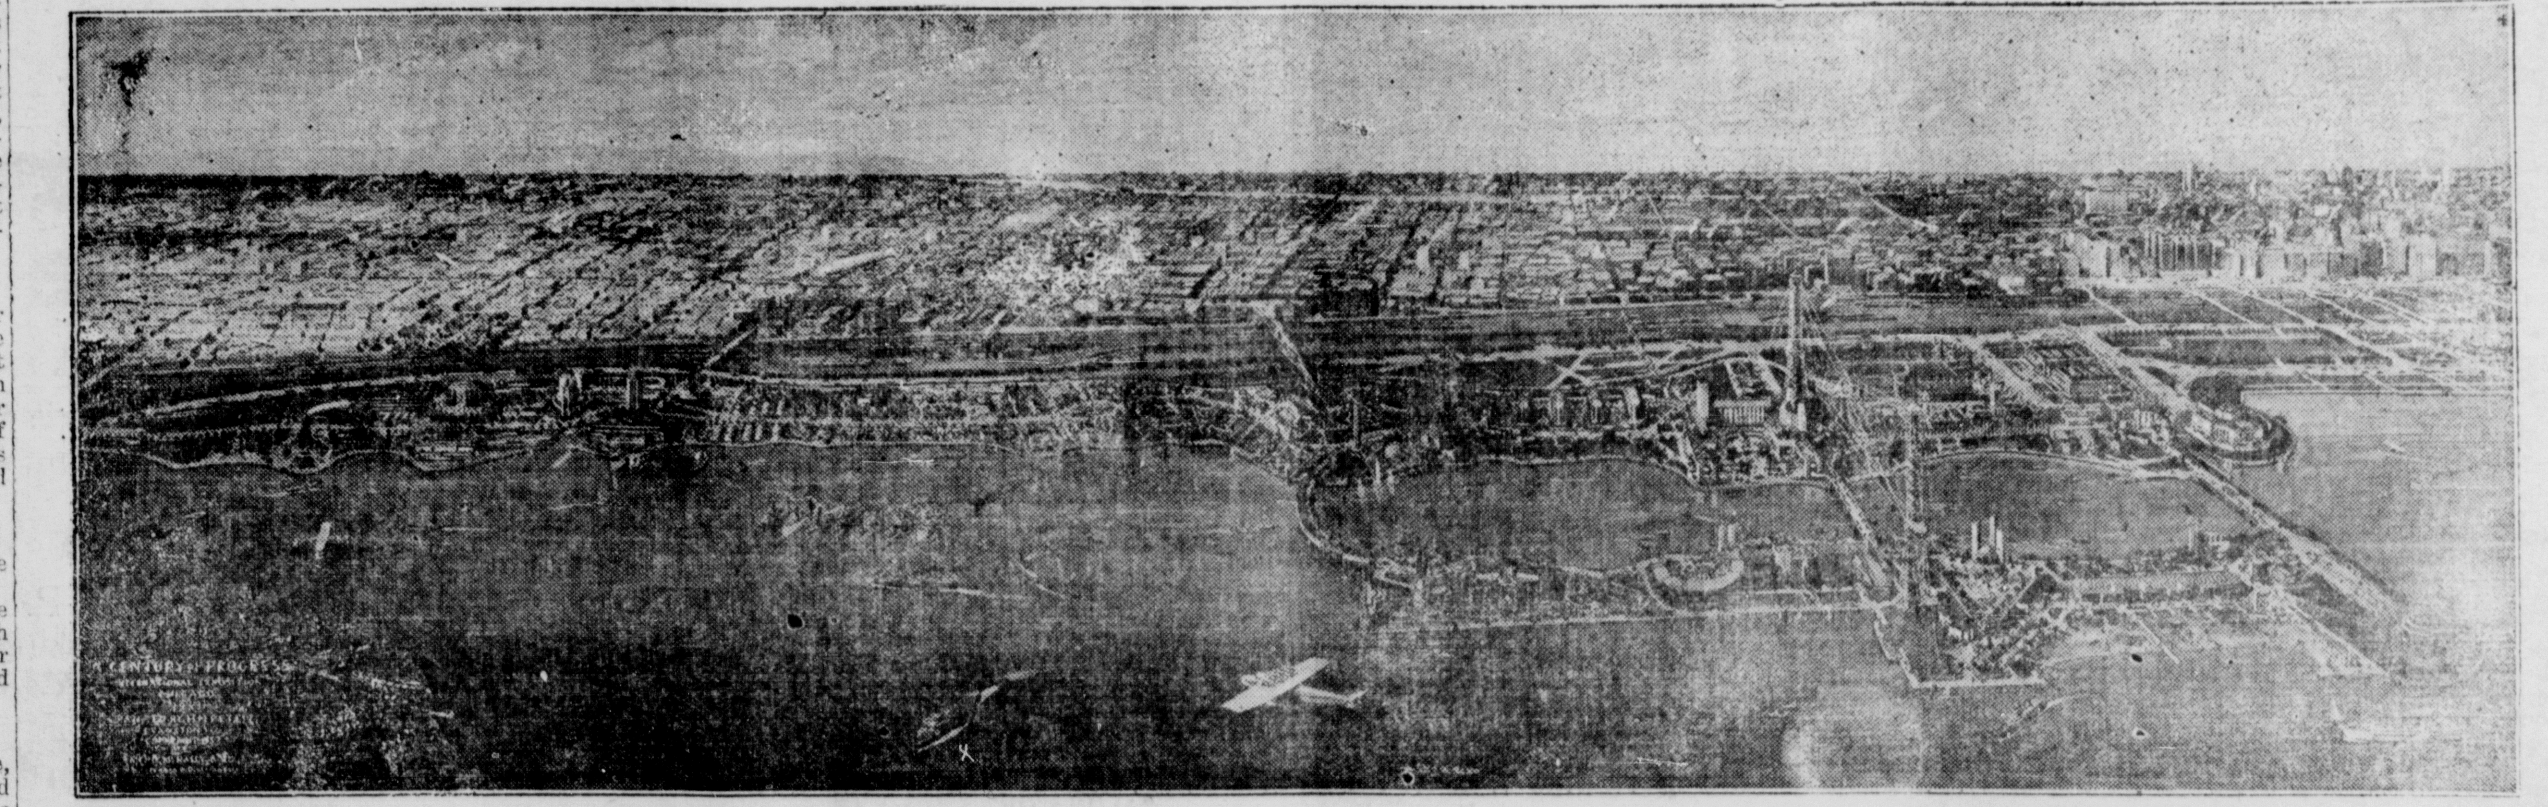

Those in Class B were: Snider, McMahill, Downs, Teal, Tlapke, Koetting, Bowman, Hebbeler, McMillan.

Two East Prairie Boys Face Charges Made by Girls, 15

Howard Sanders and Harold Ishmael, two 20-year-old East Prairie youths, are in the Benton jail facing serious charges preferred by parents of Helen Long, 15, of Bell City, and Mary Elizabeth Kirby, 15, of Benton. The girls allege that they were criminally assaulted Saturday night by the young men in a land off of Highway 55, near the Misset farm. Clothing exhibited to Scott County officials tends to bear out the contention of the young girls, it was stated at Benton today.

Elden Clinton, brother of Frank Clinton, was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau, Sunday, where he underwent an operation at 9 o'clock Monday morning for a ruptured appendix. His condition is reported as critical. Frederick the Great despised the German language and ignored German writers, though he was King of Prussia.

AERIAL VIEW OF CHICAGO'S WORLD'S FAIR WHICH OPENED SATURDAY

This panoramic view of A Century of Progress clearly visualizes the magnitude of the Exposition stretched along three miles of Chicago's lake front. In the foreground is Northerly Island, at one end of which is the famed Adler Planetarium, and which is connected to the mainland by three colorful bridges. The sparkling lagoon is also spanned by the Sky-Ride, whose towers loom 628 feet in the air. The Fair with its startling new architectural features and vari-colored tapestry presents a vivid contrast to the towering skyscrapers in the background. The Fair site covers 424 acres of man-made land.

WE THANK YOU ALL

Sikeston is grateful to the visiting Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association for the three days of fun, frolic and entertainment last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Drummers have experienced a considerable thinning of ranks since the depression. Curtailed expense accounts, increased individual territories, harder work for less pay, and an entirely new personnel in the profession have had their effect.

Still much of the old-time pep and good nature remains. A few of the older heads manage to keep the organization, which by the way, is the oldest and only remaining organized group of its kind in the United States, intact.

The question why a drummers' convention, often arises. In the case of Skeston, it afforded an opportunity for the entire district to get together; to bring St. Louis to Skeston, and to renew friendship with Charleston, Poplar Bluff and other towns and cities in the district. It solidified the local group of up-and-doing merchants, because committee work necessarily means working together, and it brought about a feeling of understanding and good fellowship between neighboring towns, tradespeople, buyers and sellers.

The convention brought hundreds of articles of merchandise to Skeston to be distributed during a "Trade In Skeston" campaign; it brought a first class boxing card, an entertainment bill of high caliber, a dandy dance band, and fun for the kids of the Skeston district. That pet parade alone was worth the entire cost of the affair, and the big parade Friday—well few towns, thanks to excellent cooperation of a dozen out-of-town units, is hard to duplicate.

To the visiting drummers we say, "Come Again" and to the visiting good will boosters, "We were glad to have you."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our neighbors and friends for their many deeds of kindness during the illness and death of our husband and father, for the beautiful floral offerings, and especially do we thank Rev. J. A. Duncan for his comforting words.

POPPY SALE

The poppy sale under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary, last Friday, was a successful one. A very attractive window display of small white crosses intermingled with red poppies at Dudley's attracted a great deal of attention and no doubt helped with the sales.

The prizes offered by the Auxiliary to the girl and boy Scout selling the most poppies, were awarded to Hita Clymer and G. C. Baker.

Ex-Congressman James F. Fulbright of Doniphan was here yesterday to attend the commencement exercises at the Southeast Missouri State Teachers College, where his son, Carlton, graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree. Mr. Fulbright was born and reared in this county.

While here Mr. Fulbright told a News representative that he expected to be a candidate for United States Senator to succeed Senator Roscoe Patterson, whose term will expire in 1934. Willis Meredith, of Poplar Bluff, speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives at the recent session of the legislature is also reported to be a candidate. Senator J. C. McDowell of Charleston, State Senator, who was regarded as one of the leading members of the General Assembly, is being mentioned as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congressman from this district. —Cape News.

MATTHEWS-PARKER

A very pretty wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Parker, south of this city, when their daughter, Miss Beulah, was united in marriage to Forrest Matthews of East Prairie. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Z. Matthews, brother of the groom and pastor of the Christian Church of East Prairie. The bride was attired in white with accessories to match while the groom wore a dark business suit. Only immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony.

Mrs. Matthews is a highly accomplished young lady, having graduated from the Matthews high school in 1927. Since that time she has been employed in teaching and for the past three years has taught York school, where she has been re-employed for next year. She was also a student of the Teachers College, and Central Missouri State Teachers College, at Warrensburg.

Mr. Matthews is a highly respected young man and has for quite a while made his home with his brother, Rev. A. Z. Matthews of East Prairie. He is professionally an interior decorator and has been employed in that line of work in East Prairie, where the young couple will reside.

Their many friends offer best congratulations and wish for them a long and happy married life.

Charley Blanton relating in his Sikeston Standard that four bootleggers who plead guilty and were freed for certain reasons, relates "no wonder the prohibition law was a failure". That was one of the principal contributing causes why prohibition was a failure—turning loose after police officials had caught them, and a larger contributing cause was that too many police officers were bought off and made no effort to apprehend violators. No law on the Statute books but what is a failure if the officer—all of them—fail or refuse to do their duty. The prohibition laws of the country never had as much chance of being anything but a failure; not one whit more than a snowball in hell.—Charleston Courier.

Senator J. C. McDowell has declared himself in favor of a sales tax. He said so at Benton last week in a talk at the school conference. He dwelt on the effort of others to defeat it. It is our opinion that we will have to come to it sooner or later and the quicker, the better, and the earlier will the tax payers be relieved from the excessive burden now being put on lands. McDowell introduced a sales tax measure but it got nowhere. That is, it failed of passage. He does not favor a special session of the legislature but thinks the legislature in 1935 should pass a sales tax measure. It is hoped that he will not change his mind before that time for there is no doubt that property owners will be as great in need of relief then as now. The fact will remain that too heavy burden is put on lands and not enough on intangibles and indirect taxation, among which there should be luxuries and some essentials, as we classify them.—Charleston Courier.

When a man who for long years has been recognized as one of the most powerful financiers not only in this country but also internationally calmly states on the witness stand that he has paid no income taxes this year nor the two years before one wonders how such evasion is possible, for the average man will never believe that J. P. Morgan did not have an income in excess of $2500 per year. If he did have such net income, then he should have paid a tax. It is such things that produce a growth of revolutionary feeling among the masses.—Jackson Post.

Two things should be mentioned before we forget it.
One is flat tires.

The Man About Town is not the only one to register a complaint regarding the bushels of rusty nails on Moore Avenue, and in the parkway in front of the high school building.

One recent night found six Sikestonians tied up at that building with flats picked up on the spot. Taint right. Although every all-night service station operator gets a grin on his mug when the subject is mentioned.

Seriously though, we wish some of those influential members of the School Board would use that influence, or enough of it to secure use of the State Highway Department road magnet on Moore and Tanner streets.

Do we hear a second?

There were THREE flats at one time Friday night within 100 yards of the gymnasium.

And the other things is the verbal promise of Jos. L. Matthews to have ceiling fans and ventilators installed in the Armory room.

Man and boy alike, twern't a fit night out for man nor beast Friday during the struggle. Three hops, a skip and one jump across that crowded floor, and me and my gal, Sue and her boy friend hit the highways in search of AIR . . . It's a splendid idea if Joe can be reminded of his good intentions from time to time before the snow flies.

The radio entertainer, Ken Wright with his accordion, seemed to strike a universal note with the audience Friday night at the gym . . . and at 6 a. m. the next morning Ken and his buddy were in the studio KMOX dedicating Breakfast Club numbers to Lyle Malone and other boys about town.

That man do move.

Heads of women adorn many of our coins, says one of our married friends . . . and observes he: It takes many coins to adorn the head of his woman.

It is a poor rule that does not work both ways.

Make New Dishes From Left-Overs

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

NO MATTER how carefully we plan and purchase, left-overs frequently occur in every family. Just as a business man is careful that there are no "leaks" in his business, so must the homemaker avoid them by using left-over foods to good advantage. Left-over dishes need not be monotonous; there are many dishes made from remnants of yesterday's dinner so good and attractive in appearance that even the most critical of families will pronounce them excellent. Your family will enjoy having the dishes suggested below and you will find them easily prepared and budget saving.

Left Over Roast Pork with Spaghetti—Cook 1 medium minced onion, and ½ cup finely chopped celery in 4 tablespoons butter until tender. Add 1½ cups diced cooked pork, sprinkle with 1 tablespoon flour, and brown. Add ½ cup milk or water, stirring until thickened, then add 1—21 oz. can Cooked Spaghetti, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce, and cook until Spaghetti is thoroughly heated. Serve hot, and sprinkle with ½ cup grated American cheese.

Pork with Mustard Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in skillet. Add 2 tablespoons flour and brown slightly. Add 1 cup milk and stir until sauce thickens. Season with 2 teaspoons Pure Mustard and ½ teaspoon salt. Place 8 to 10 slices of cold pork in sauce and allow to remain till they are heated through. Serve on slices of bread, buttered and toasted on both sides.

Left Over Meat and Tomato Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a frying pan, add 6 medium sized onions thinly sliced, and cook over a low flame until slightly brown, stirring frequently. Add 2 cups Cream of Tomato Soup, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon celery salt, and cook slowly until thick and rich—about ½ hour. Add 2 cups cold cooked beef or veal cut in small pieces or an equal amount of cold sliced meat, heat thoroughly and serve. The recipe serves six.

Left Over Beef Casserole—Mix 2 cups ground cooked beef, 1 cup bread crumbs, ¼ cup milk, 2 slightly beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons Chili Sauce, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and place in buttered casserole or baking dish. Cover top with buttered bread crumbs or buttered Rice Flakes. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) for about ½ hour. Serve hot.

Baker Hash Casserole—Mix 3 cups cooked meat, chopped (veal, pork, or combination of meats) 2 cups fresh bread crumbs, 1 cup Cream of Pea Soup (canned) and a dash of pepper. Put in a buttered casserole, cover with buttered crumbs, and bake for 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven (400°F.) Serves 5.

Swinger Wins Decision From Louie Kimmel

Approximately 300 persons saw Herbert Swinger, the sensational Dexter lad win a decision over Louie Kimmel, St. Louisian, in the main go of the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association boxing card held under the lights at the high school athletic field Thursday night. This event was one of seven bouts arranged by a Chamber of Commerce committee for the entertainment of Drummers in convention, their guests and district fight fans.

Swinger took the first two rounds forcing Kimmel constantly. The St. Louis lad had a first line of defense, however, and came through with telling body blows at intervals. The final round was undoubtedly Kimmel's round, but he started his rally too late in the three-round event.

Jackie Thompson, 129-pounder of St. Louis, won a decision from Jimmie Rice, 130 pounds, Corning, Ark., lad in three flashy rounds. The boys entered after the Schuller-Cunningham match, which, at best, started off in a waltz. Thompson and Rice were both willing to have leather, and leather swapping pleased fight crowds. The boys fought on even terms in the first round, but experience told the tale in the two final rounds. Thompson is at his best, say fight followers, in a ten-round match, but it was impossible to stage a fight of that caliber on a three-round amateur card.

Schuller and Cunningham, the former of Corning, Ark., and, incidentally, under the wing of Roy Custer, who participated in the parade Friday driving a 1910 model Woods Mobilette, spent their entire first round sparring for an opening. Two solid blows were cranked in the opener, which was given to Schuller by the judges. Cunningham went down for the count of six in the second but recovered nicely and began to mix things, to the entire satisfaction of the crowd. Schuller maintained his advantage in the third, but the judges called the match a draw. Cunningham hails from Houston, Texas and weighs in at 144 pounds.

One of the two really outstanding bouts of the evening card, featured Young Dosier, 126, of Campbell, Mo., facing Roy Standfield, 127, of St. Louis. Dosier carried the fight to Standfield's midsection and head during the first round, rating a number of very effective body punches. Standfield recovered his composure in the second round, and handed out considerable punishment, but Dosier maintained his advantage with body blows that had their effect. Standfield attempted to find the Campbell boy, but found his target always on the alert, and usually moving away when punches were sent in his direction. Dosier won the match, hands down.

Walter "Mighty" Ansell and Bob Jackson, rated on the card next to the curtain raisers, proved to be a major attraction. Both boys are scrappers with Ansell holding an advantage with local fight fans due to the fact that he has appeared on a number of local Army cards. Jackson, however, is solidly built, and has received several months' training at the hands of Cletus Ellis, and held his own to a draw in the match with "Mighty". Bob managed to find Ansell's face during the first part of the match, but had to absorb body punches throughout the match. Jackson's foot work and excellent recovery made the match with Ansell, who enjoyed a slightly longer reach and more experience about equal. Bob took the first, say the judges; the second was called a draw, while Ansell took the third round to even the stakes. It was a good match.

Better Breakfasts

WHEN the north wind it blows, and the cold nips your nose, and the branches are crackling with ice, then you need something warm to offset the bleak storm, and a good filling breakfast is nice. Then the food in your pot should be hearty and hot, and your overcoat heavy and thick, and the things that you eat should have substance and heat, or the weather will make you feel sick.

But let's get down to prose, although there's nothing prosy about a better breakfast. Here's one for a morning of bitter weather when you need the proteins of meat, the heat of oatmeal and the filling qualities of baked potatoes to help you resist the cold.

Compote of Pears and Apples
Pare and core two large cooking apples, and cut them into eighths. Add one and one-third cups water and one cup sugar to the syrup from a No. 2 can of pears, add a few cloves, and boil for three or four minutes. Add apples, and simmer gently until tender but still in perfect shape. Remove apples, and add pears, whole or cut in halves, and cook until very soft and syrup somewhat thickened. Remove pears to dish with apples, and strain syrup over. Chill. Serves eight.

110-Volt Davis and "Hardhead" Dover, two local fly weights, met against Thursday night after a lapse of nearly two months, and fought to a draw. The boys have appeared on previous cards at the Armory, and each has a definite following.

In the curtain raiser featuring Jimmie Dee, the fightin' parson, advertised under the non-de-plume of Skyrocket, met Snowball "Ino-Vis" Hambors Douglass Coleman and fought to a draw.

"Skyrocket" and "Snowball" really made the card a success from the start. In the first, clinching was in order, although Skyrocket's infighting made up for several haymaker swings started from the ankles, by Snowball. The judges said "No advantage" for either fighter. In the second round Skyrocket used his left considerably, pounding Snowball's topnotch and on one occasion both fighters were floored at the same time, but continued to scrap nevertheless. The referee remained in a neutral corner. In the third round, Snowball landed jabs to the short ribs, but Skyrocket recovered his ministerial poise and swapped blow for blow, giving him the final round.

Paul Slinkard and his Sikeston band entertained the crowd before and during the match with a number of musical selections which seemingly were much appreciated.

Sidney Hooks saw a man at the tent show with a trained duck, which did a lot of things he could not do, but Sid says he is not dis-ounged, as he can sneeze and a duck can't.—Commercial Appeal.

Emergency Food Shelf Always Ready For Unexpected Guests

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

THE Emergency Shelf is becoming standard equipment of almost every household. Our modern idea of marketing is to make as few trips to market as possible. Today it is possible to obtain almost every kind of food in packages that keep indefinitely on pantry shelves. Numberless appetizing meals can be prepared from such supplies and we all know the thrill of feeling that we are ready for any unexpected occasion.

Perishables — fruits, vegetables, milk, eggs, butter — must be ordered in fairly small quantities but canned and packaged goods can be ordered in sufficient amounts to last for weeks and even months. It is more economical to purchase in larger amounts when special prices are effective. We should have on hand ready-to-serve cereals, soups, fish, meat, canned vegetables, and canned and dried fruits, Oven Baked Beans, Cooked Spaghetti, Jellies, and Preserves, Pickles, Relishes, Spanish Olives, Sandwich Spread, Peanut Butter, Mayonnaise Salad Dressing, fruit gelatin, packaged cheeses, crackers and sweet wafers, and ready-to-serve Fig and Plum Puddings. Below are menus easily and quickly prepared from foods on your supply shelf:

Athletics and Charity

Food or clothing was the price of admission to a hockey game between the New York Rangers and Atlantic City Sea Gulls, and here is an impression of the gate receipts.

THE United States is undoubtedly both the most athletic and most charitable nation on earth. Clever philanthropists are now combining these two national traits by holding athletic events of all sorts for charity. And they are accepting food, clothing and fuel as the price of admission, and passing on the proceeds of these unusual gate receipts to the poor. Food, clothing and fuel, properly distributed, are needed by the poor now even more than money, so this seems to be an excellent plan.

Even before the banks were closed, the New York Rangers had played a hockey game against the Atlantic City Sea Gulls for which admission tickets were exchanged for foodstuffs and wearing apparel to be given to the poor. This game was played in the vast Auditorium at Atlantic City, and every one of its 22,650 seats, equivalent to about one-quarter of the entire population, was filled.

Splendid Results

After the game, the Rangers visited the quarters in which the stores were being held pending disposal of the goods by the American Red Cross which knows how to do this right. About two tons of provisions were awaiting distribution, and it was a great thing, incidentally, for the Atlantic City merchants. One official estimated that the value of the canned foods alone was approximately $5,000. Before these hockey "tickets" came into possession of the fans, they had to be moved across the grocery counters.

Huge sacks of potatoes, bags of flour, cases of eggs, sides of bacon, hams, crates of vegetables, bags of coffee and cans of food were jammed into two stores fronting the boardwalk. The cellars underneath were also crammed. Besides these, several hundred dollars' worth of orders lay in the office drawer, some of them for tons and half tons of coal, coffee, flour and similar supplies and some for cases of canned foods.

A Liberal Policy

Most of the deluge of groceries rolled in upon the sponsors of the benefit match within three days, and a liberal policy as to what would be accepted was pursued. One little fellow brought in a small package of condensed bouillon, inquiring if he could have two tickets therefore. He got the tickets. Two other tickets were exchanged for dogs.

The morning of the match a boy came in asking if they would accept a red sweater.

"Why, certainly," he was told. "Anything."

"There it is," he beamed triumphantly when he came back with the sweater. "I never did like it. It makes me look like a sissy."

"Gee," he declared, apprehensively, as he departed with his ticket, "my mother will trim me when she finds out I've given that sweater away!"

Aside from this young man's high handed proceeding and apprehensions, this form of charity turned out to be a good thing. Why not have more of it—everywhere? We play games at all seasons, and many persons who are not likely to go into a grocery store would go there fast enough if the object were to gain admission to a game of their favorite sport.

And the price of admission is not so hot or miss as one might be tempted to imagine, especially if it is interpreted into cans of food. Every housewife knows the current prices of canned foods in her neighborhood and can indulge in this charity without being too lavish because she is fully posted on costs.

Canned Foods Currency

There are so many sizes of cans and so many different products canned, that it would even be possible to make change in this sort of charitable barter. If a housewife had more of one product than she needed on her shelves, and wanted to exchange it, or part of it, for something else, even this could be equitably effected.

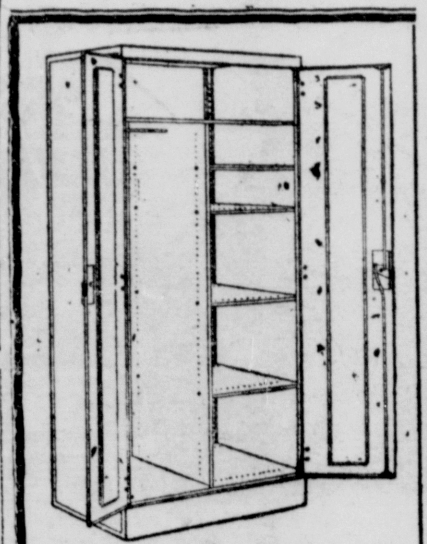

There are now more than two hundred and sixty different foods canned in quantities—vegetables, fruits, fish, meats, specialties, soups, ready-made entrées—and many of these are offered in several sizes. For the expert housewife here is a currency made to order. She knows more about it even than she does about money. She knows her cans by cupfuls and how many each will feed.

KIDS GET PRIZES IN PET PARADE

The pet parade staged here last Friday afternoon by the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association was a colorful affair, with more than 200 children, white and black, participating. Every kind of pet from a bullfrog to a lamb, the latter proudly led down the street by "Mary," were represented. Decorated doll buggies carrying dogs and cats were in profusion.

First in line of the parade was the Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps, followed by a negro Major, dressed in a Civil War Major's suit. Then followed the girls and boys in their various costumes—fairies, circus queens, Indian, bell hop, old-fashioned garbs of some fifty years ago, while some were dressed in white trousers, black frocktail coats and stovepipe hats; red, green, pink and white crepe paper dresses, and others in their "Sunday best", summer frocks of organdies, batistes, silks and prints, each carrying, pushing or leading their pets which had been scrubbed spotlessly clean for the occasion.

A few special attractions such as clowns and a negro string band were also included in the parade.

The winners: Frances Ann Newsum, dressed in red and green with a cute cap. Frances led her bulldog, who was also attired in red and green.

Second place went to Elizabeth Wagner, who pulled a red wagon lined with snow white cloth and cotton, and in which six white puppies behaved like veterans at a dog show. It was one of the most striking entries in the parade.

Third place was taken by Viola Taylor with a three-day-old black colt.

Fourth to Rita Lee Turner and her brother, who escorted a decorated white and black cage full of white Rex rabbits.

Blanche Penner, a circus queen on a pony, was awarded fifth place. Betty Lee Hirschberg, wheeling a snow white puppy in a pink doll buggy, was given sixth place.

In the boys' division, Joe Arbaugh won first.

John Dover with "Henny Penny", a bantam hen on a nest second.

Junior Collins third, Art Swacker fourth, Doyle Heath showing a parrot in a cage fifth.

In the negro children's pet parade, Charles and Chester Hill won first and second place, respectively.

C. B. GRAHAM TO SUCCEED LISLE BROWN IN HIGHWAY POSITION

A former Sikestonian, C. B. Graham, formerly connected with the Construction Department here, but more recently of Hannibal, will return this week to assume duties as Construction Engineer in Highway Division Ten. Lisle Brown, who for the past five and one-half years has filled the position at local headquarters, has been transferred to Division Five with headquarters in Jefferson City, where he and his family will be at home at 204 Cherry Street.

CHAS. KEITH AND CHILDHOOD SWEETIE WERE WED SUNDAY

Thwarted romance had its day Sunday afternoon, when Charles Keith, known to every business man in Sikeston, and his first love, Mrs. Fern Lankford, nee Fern Johnson, were united in marriage at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. E. H. Grear, pastor of the local Methodist church, who read the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Scott, 626 Kendall street. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yamitz and Mr. and Mrs. Gord Dill were witnesses.

The Johnson-Keith romance flared through many years ago, and his bride-to-be married the other man, Bert Lankford. She reared a family of five, subsequently received a divorce, and Sunday patched up the old romance and with her first sweetheart decided to give marriage another whirl. For the past several years, Mrs. Keith has been employed as a nurse at the Brandon Hospital, Poplar Bluff.

Mr. Keith is known in Sikeston and other towns in the district as one of the best sign painters in the district. He will remain here for some time to complete various business matters, after which he and his recent bride will make their home in Poplar Bluff.

Oilers Must Defend Title In Ball League

The Standard Oilers will be called upon to maintain their position at the head of the percentage column facing the cellar team, Potashnick Truckers in the Thursday Muny League game.

The deadlock existing at the end of the first eight games with the International 1 and Midwest Aces will be broken Tuesday when those two teams meet to decide which one goes up one notch or slides into third place.

Both games this week in the Muny League series promise to be unusually fast, especially since Manager Kirby of the Aces signed a Morley "dark horse" who is equally good on the mound and at bat.

The Trunkers with one of the best all-around lineups in the league suffer from lack of good pitching says manager Duke Weidemann, who claims the fault, if it is a fault, will be corrected soon. "They will not be in the basement 'I'm telling you', says the Duke, 'at the close of the next round'."

We shall see.

Standing of the teams:	Won	Lost
Standard Oil	3	1 .750
Internationals	2	2 .500
Midwest Aces	2	2 .500
Potashnick	1	3 .250

"As I See It—"

By Art L. Walhausen

Southeast Missouri, like other parts of the State, gains considerable fame through a homely expression, "You All."

We suggest that the Chamber of Commerce or Lions Club, the City or some other organization capitalize on this folk expression.

Eight signs, two at each entrance and exit of the city should read "You all are welcome" and "Thank you all", one facing incoming and the other outgoing traffic.

It may not meet with the approval of English teachers, but it will send folks away from Sikeston thinking of that town where "You All" are welcome.

Whadya say, Lyle and John?

From Neosho, Mo., home town of John Tandy, State Highway Trooper, comes an invitation to put on a swimming demonstration in the Morse pool of that city.

The invitation to participate in the full dress uniform swimming exhibition came through E. C. Coulter, bank executive of that city who had heard of Tandy's unscheduled exhibition at Poplar Bluff, May 20.

Tandy had not accepted.

CHAPTER XXII

Blondie and Pratt were standing on the ship's bar. She had listened tentatively as Pratt pompously told her about the boat, using his newly acquired nautical vocabulary. Now she was talking to her with a sleek gentleness.

"I think the Follies are very fortunate. You're a very decorative young lady."

"And you start rehearsals for about three weeks, I suppose?" said Pratt, as he poured some champagne into their glasses.

"Yes, Mr. O'Brien—do you know that? He was great—gave me a couple of looks."

"I don't blame him. I feel like looking at you myself, and Pratt's face moved in closer to her. "I've never been on a yacht before," said Blondie, quickly.

"I hope you're coming often," said Pratt, raising his glass. "Drink up, you had too much of this last night—oh-h-h-h!" exclaimed Blondie, looking at her glass.

"The bubble of life!" "The bubbles down your nose, you mean," and they drank. "Hello, Blondie!" Larry had approached unnoticed.

"Oh, Mr. Belmont!" said Blondie, trying to be cold. "How's Pa?"

"Okay!" "Now—here's the bridge up here," said Pratt, impatiently.

"What does she want to see the bridge for?" Just a lot of old compasses and charts, you don't want to see the bridge?" said Larry.

Pratt glared at Larry and started to move away. "Are you coming?" he asked Blondie.

"I want a word with this child," Larry said. "I'm an old friend of the family, eh, Blondie?"

"Are you kidding?" Pratt was annoyed. "Wouldn't kid anyone, would I?"

"Not much!" said Blondie, as Pratt turned away in a huff. "Listen, you—watch your step!" said Larry seriously, when Pratt was out of earshot. "You're a nice kid, you think I wasn't on the level last night, I'm very fond of you, Blondie."

"Thanks," Blondie tried to keep her voice disinterested. "I mean decently... decently fond of you," Larry was very much in earnest now, and he spoke quickly. Blondie watched him closely.

"Let's be pals. Don't mess around with this sort of people—it doesn't mean anything."

"If it doesn't mean anything—what about you and Lurline?" "That's over," Blondie looked at him angrily.

"Oh, I hate you! I wish I'd never met you!" "I told you—that's over!" Larry said emphatically.

"Since when?" "Today!" "Why?"

"I won't say it because of you—because it wasn't altogether true, but last night decided me..." and Larry suddenly seized both her arms, looking her squarely in the eyes.

"Break!" They both turned at the sound of Lurline's voice. "What's the idea?" she asked.

"I'm going home," said Larry, glaring at her. "What's keeping you... good night!" said Lurline sarcastically.

Larry started to reply, thought better of it, and stalked away, leaving the two girls alone.

"Oh, Lurline... I couldn't help it," said Blondie.

"Not!" "You know—I don't want to kiss him—but I do..."

era organization, and Auditor No. 1 of Jefferson City. Skeston's leading industry for the second time within a month demonstrated its real strength and offered an opportunity of employees accommodated by the local plant.

A Buckner Ragsdale float, featuring "75" Club banners, and advertising International Shoes came next in line. The machine was driven by Mrs. Pauline Henry, who had three attractive young ladies to add beauty and dignity to the show.

"Supposing I was through... emotionally Lurline was almost at the breaking point... supposing we were washed up—would you like him for yourself?" Lurline looked at Blondie narrowly.

"Come on—you can tell me," "Well, I don't know..." "Come on, we're pals. You can tell me..." Lurline cautioned.

"I wouldn't get sore—tell me—we're pals!" "I guess I might..." Blondie admitted, almost under her breath.

The answer turned loose all Lurline's pent-up emotion. Unable to control herself any longer she slapped Blondie in the face.

"You dirty little double-crosser!" "I don't you ever speak to me again!"

Blondie was stunned. For the first time in her life she was incapable of taking the challenge of battle. Standing perfectly still she watched Lurline hurry away.

In a rage, Lurline dropped into a deck chair near the accommodation ladder. She was so angry she failed to hear Lurline's quieting nearby.

"Why home?" asked Pratt. "Tired," said Larry, noncommittally.

"You weren't very friendly just now..." "You won't get anywhere with that kid—let me tell you that—good night!" and Larry turned away angrily.

As he passed Lurline she looked up. "Good night, Larry," she said, brokenly. He looked down at her.

"I'll take care of that money thing in the morning. Good night!" and he went down the ladder.

"Good night!" called Lurline, just as Pratt stepped up. "What's wrong with Larry?" he asked.

"Blonde trouble!" replied Lurline. "I thought so. What about her?" "She's great! She'd bore the daylights out of a man with brains—like you," and Lurline looked up at him with her most captivating smile.

"I like to be bored by people like that..." The approach of several girls cut him short, and when they surrounded the yacht owner Lurline arose and went toward the bar.

Blondie was standing alone at the bar, draining a glass of champagne. She saw Lurline coming and started away.

"Listen, you sap—just one word..." "Go away..." "All right—see where you'll land!"

"You'll see where I'll land!" said Blondie, as though suddenly making up her mind. "Heigh, baby!" she called to Pratt. He approached, smiling broadly.

"Thought you'd jumped overboard..." "Would you jump after me if I did?"

"Would I..." Blondie turned and ran full speed down the stairs.

"Hey!" called Pratt, as he started after her.

As Blondie reached the low couch at the stern of the boat she dived into the bank of pillows.

As Pratt reached the couch on the run he fell down beside Blondie.

Lurline watched the scramble on the couch. Her thoughts were interrupted by an ingratiating feminine voice.

"Lurline, precious..." It was one of the Follies' pony girls. "...where did you find that charming little creature?... So blonde!"

"Shut up, you! She'll get her!" "It looks as though she will—and ours, too!"

Sheriff John Anderson and other Scott County law officers.

Miss Skeston, in the person of Lynnette Stallcup, was next presented to her home city riding on a float which a week ago won first place in a district competition in Poplar Bluff.

Next came two other district beauty "queens," including Marie Schwaner, chosen as the outstanding beauty in the district, and Miss Roberta Jones of Kennett, riding with Miss Ruth and Powell, and two guests from Poplar Bluff.

Two drummer clowns, Stanley Knippenberg and Frank A. Broe, surrounded by a dozen admirers, trooped next in line to be followed by the Poplar Bluff high school band and a delegation of 45 members of the Poplar Bluff Chamber of Commerce.

The Charleston high school band under the direction of F. F. Fish and led by a peppy drum major headed the visiting St. Louis Chamber of Commerce delegation.

The Blue Jay band made a striking appearance in snappy white uniforms topped off by a blue cape and hat of matching color, and is composed of real musicians. Sixty business leaders from St. Louis marched in the procession.

The Skeston drum and bugle corps followed next in line, and earned the reputation of being the noisiest outfit in the parade. Diligent drilling and excellent cadence added greatly to the appearance of the Henry Meldrum Post, Legion group.

A comic float worthy of the first place it later won in competition with other entries, came next. The float was piloted by Mrs. E. G. Buchanan, and included in its mishmash, sign bedecked body the following: Mrs. Harry Young, Mrs. Earl Johnson, Mrs. Lyle Malone and Mrs. Earl Malone.

Clever makeup, odd clothes, trick teeth and tons of paint made recognition even by close friends and members of their families difficult.

An automobile piloted by Miss Nambelle Wilson and occupied by Mrs. Edith Gmeiner and Charles Allen Cook, was next in line. The sedan was literally covered in rambling roses against a background of white, and was trimmed in green willow twigs to carry out the red and green color scheme of the Drummers' organization.

Two clowns representing fantastic hitch hikers, pranced down the line of march. They were none other than Mrs. Ruth Malone and Mrs. Bess Elder, who readily caught the fancy of the parade watchers. Occasional specialty dances by one or the other members of the comedy team, did not detract from their popularity.

An ancient automobile, vintage 1910 and manufactured by the Woods Mobelette Company, was brought here from Piggott, Ark., to take part in the event Friday.

The automobile was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Caster, who operate a day and night garage in the Arkansas city.

Paul Taubert's Poplar Bluff clown band came next in line. The musicians were dressed in flashy, original costumes and amused the watchers and children especially.

The organization, said one member of the Poplar Bluff Chamber of Commerce, is not very old in terms of years, but it is a live wire organization and is one of the features of which the good will builders for the Butler County city are justly proud.

Nearly 300 International Shoe Factory men, dressed in black trousers, white shirts, blue neckties and caps of white and blue marched four abreast in order.

This section alone was more than a city block in length.

Three floats came next in order. The first, a decorated automobile entered by Sheppard's Cafe presented Miller Jean Moll, dressed as a chef, riding astride the hood offering a delightful sandwich indicative of the quality foods sold by the restaurant.

The entry of the Southeast Missouri Telephone Co. featured a huge telephone set mounted on a Ford pickup truck.

The next float, a comedy trio, composed of Mrs. Fred Kirby, Mrs. Gus Martin and Mrs. Ernest Torgate, passed in review. A delapidated wagon drawn by a mule finished the picture of depression at its worst.

Skeston kids band, composed of Paul Kelly, R. C. Westmoreland, Vernon Geehan and Ernest Dale Campbell, furnished yazzoo, harp and violin music.

Next in order came the Boy Scout drum and bugle corps and Skeston Scouts, a drummer clown and more children, a section of horsemen and lady riders, bike riders, and the Skeston municipal band.

The rest of the parade was composed of commercial entries including the Coca Cola beer truck, a Dexter theatre sound equipped automobile, new Plymouths and the Langley Plymouth wrecker, a Budweiser truck and "negro" band, Greenway Market and Schorle Butter Krust trucks and private automobiles.

From leadoff band, Col. Seymour's veteran musicians to the funniest float, the parade was interesting. At the grade school building, more than 1500 white and negro school children, each group in charge of a teacher, joined the marchers.

As the kiddies passed the Malone Park, Col. Seymour's band struck up appropriate melodies, including that ancient tune known to every grammar school child. As the negro contingent passed, the music was hastily switched to "Dixie" and finally to Country Club and Budweiser trucks passed slowly in review, the band offered, "How Dry I Am."

TODAY'S HOUSEHOLD

Dorothy Davenport, Household Science Institute

You have to eat a peck of dirt Sometime before you die, But I insist the air I breathe Be washed but not too dry.

HEN Lowell sang of the rare June day, he probably did not visualize the time when every day might be a June day indoors, at least.

That is exactly what the air scientist, or aerologist, has made possible. He has analyzed the perfect June day and learned its constituent parts, and then, with the aid of the engineer, he has devised equipment that makes it possible to have a June day in the home every day in the year.

In the next few months, when Old Sol seems in league with the hot winds and the humidity to see how much discomfort can be inflicted on us poor humans, tens of thousands of homes throughout the country will serve their owners as virtual mountain summer resorts, even though far from stream or forest. These are the homes that have been completely air-conditioned by small, inexpensive units that have been introduced since the first of the year. These systems, which operate in conjunction with or independent of the central heating system of the house, attain cooling by passing the home air through sprays of cool water which at the same time also removes excess moisture from the air. By this method not one room but every room in the house is flooded with cool, washed gently moving air.

One feature about summer cooling of homes should be emphasized, states the Holland Institute of Air-Conditioning. Do not chill the air. Many of our cooled theaters and restaurants are uncomfortable because the air is too cool. During summer we are most comfortable in a temperature of 76 to 80 degrees. In fact, it is the consensus of air-conditioning experts, medical authorities, neurologists and physiologists, that indoor temperature should not vary more than 10 to 15 degrees from outdoor temperatures even during very hot weather. This makes for complete physical comfort and obviates the possibility of shock to the body or nervous system.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION SPENDS TWO DAYS IN SOUTHEAST MISSOURI

The entire personnel of the Missouri State Highway Commission visited Skeston and Southeast Missouri the past week-end, it was headed at Highway Division 10 headquarters here Saturday.

Scott Wilson, chairman, arrived here with the good will tour of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce remaining overnight to attend the special "What Night Club" program Friday sponsored by the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association. T. H. Cutler, W. F. Phares, Carl Brown and R. L. Brownlee spent part of Friday and Saturday in Skeston on a general tour of inspection.

Is Your Wife An Athlete?.. or should you get an extension telephone?

Answering a busy telephone placed on the stair landing is good training for sprinters and hurdlers. But it's a stiff workout for your wife—who has to climb up and down stairs often enough in a day, goodness knows.

Give her a telephone instrument for the second floor and leave your main telephone definitely downstairs. An extension telephone costs only a few cents a day! Nothing saves more steps and time—nothing else means such privacy, convenience and comfort.

Call our Business Office for new service or an extension telephone. No charge on any pay station.
